FORT IN IRISH FREE STATE IS TAKEN BY THE BRITISH

Military Column Comprising Artillery, Infantry and Engineers Advances Into the Belleek District on the Fermanagh-Donegal Border With Little Resistance.

REPUBLICAN FORCES RETIRE FROM TOWN

March Starts From Point on South Shore of Lough Erne in Nature of an Encircling Maneuver of the Lake.

By the Associated Press.
BELFAST, June 8.—Belleek was occupied today by British troops which advanced this morning to take the salient from the Irish irregular forces holding it.

The fort overlooking Belleek was first captured by the British troops and the town was then taken possession of by the military.

At the New Townards military headquarters this afternoon it was stated that Belleek was retaken without loss of life and that no prisoners were taken.

An engagement between the Irish irregular forces in the Belleek district and British troops began at 1 o'clock this afternoon. At that hour signals were sent up indicating that the British troops were being fired on, while there were bursts of rifle firing from the north.

The British artillery then opened up, landing two shots near the Belleek fort, which is in Free State territory.

A British military column comprising artillery, infantry and engineers advanced into the Belleek district on the Fermanagh-Donegal border this morning, with the reported intention of occupying Belleek by nightfall.

British Have Armored Cars.
The British advance started from a point on the South Shore of Lough Erne, six miles from Belleek. The British column was accompanied by armored cars.

Before the British troops moved off helicopter communication was established across Lough Erne, presumably for the forces holding the Pettigo salient.

There appeared to be a simultaneous movement in progress on both sides of the lake, in the nature of an encircling maneuver.

A correspondent at Enniskillen telegraphed this morning that from observations around Lough Erne and other information, an attack on Belleek might shortly occur, unless a last minute order prohibiting it was received. The program was for the Lancashire and Staffordshire troops, supported by a battery of howitzers and armored cars, to endeavor to dislodge the irregulars.

Enniskillen, which is the headquarters of the district, was practically surrounded of troops this forenoon, while Pettigo, which is isolated on account of the railway being out of commission, contained few soldiers.

"The situation," adds the correspondent, "is somewhat Gilbertian and could only happen in an Irish war. There is Pettigo in the Free State, loyalist to a man, now under the authority of British troops, while on the other hand, Belleek, in Ulster, except for the fort, Catholic to the backbone, is now under the domination of irregulars who are neither Orange nor Free State. This is confusing to an outsider."

Attitude of Pettigo People.
The people of Pettigo are making every effort to retain the British troops until the boundary question is settled, and a deputation is going to Belfast to put the case before the Home Secretary.

It was revealed in an investigation that some of the men found dead after the Pettigo battle had papers in their possession showing they came from Glasgow.

"The building industry," said Mr. Donlin, "in its every phase, from the banker who furnishes the money making possible the materialization of the project down to the laborer, has lost the confidence and the respect of the public. The ruling principle and object of our movement must be to restore and maintain this confidence and respect."

GIRL HELD BY POLICE OVER 20-HOUR LIMIT

Circuit Court Charges Costs of Habeas Corpus Proceedings to Chief and Sergeant.

Chief of Police O'Brien and Detective-Sergeant William C. Murphy were ordered by Circuit Judge Miller today to pay the costs of a habeas corpus proceeding brought in behalf of Miss Mildred Kinsella, 18 years old, of 3337 Blair avenue, who was arrested Monday night because she had failed to appear as witness for the State in the trial of a man said to be her suitor, and who was charged with robbery. The costs amounted to $4.

Judge Miller informed the police officers that they had violated a section of the statutes which prohibits the holding of a police prisoner for more than 20 hours without a warrant.

Miss Kinsella was arrested at the direction of the Circuit Attorney, after the case of Wilson Probst, 26, of 2430 North Ninth street, charged with robbing Fred H. Kassmann, district manager of the Stroger Grocery and Baking Co. of $389, had been continued three times because of her absence. She was considered an important witness for the State because she is alleged to have aided the police in recovering a cap and revolver that were used in the robbery.

Following her arrest Miss Kinsella sought her release on writ of habeas corpus, and Chief O'Brien and Detective-Sergeant Murphy were ordered to produce her in court yesterday. The hearing was continued until today to give the Circuit Attorney time to make a return, and when it was called this morning, the Court was informed that Miss Kinsella had been released.

Probst's case is on today's docket in Circuit Judge Hogan's court, and the Circuit Attorney explained that having had Miss Kinsella personally served with a subpoena, he did not care to have her held longer by the police. The Circuit Attorney assumed responsibility for the arrest, but as the police officers were named in the habeas corpus case as respondents, the Judge ordered the costs charged to them.

DETAILS OF STEEL MERGER PLAN PUT UP TO DAUGHTERTY

Latest Consolidation Proposal to Be Studied by Department of Justice, It Is Announced.

2 CONCERNS TO UNITE AND ACQUIRE THIRD

Name of New Company Will Be the North American Steel Corporation—Financial Plan Outlined.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 8.—Thomas L. Chadbourne, lawyer, who promoted the Republic-Midvale-Inland steel merger, today was adjudged in contempt by the Lockwood Legislative Committee when he refused to turn over experts' reports on the seven companies which were originally intended to be brought in the consolidation.

Chadbourne, it was testified before the committee during its investigation of the proposed merger, was to receive about a million dollars for his efforts in promoting the merger.

Chadbourne expressed a willingness to give the committee the valuations of three companies now in the proposed merger but refused to give up reports on the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., the Erie-Edgar Steel Co., the Lackawanna Steel Co., and the Steel and Tube Co. of America, which were included in the seven companies mentioned when the consolidation was first undertaken.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 8.—Attorney-General Daugherty has been notified of the completed plans for the merger of the Republic, Midvale and Inland Steel companies in accordance with a promise made to the Attorney-General May 24, that no merger would be consummated without giving him full details.

In a formal announcement of the receipt of this information, the Department of Justice said:

"The terms of the proposed merger of the three companies, with issued capital of $12,825,657, were made public yesterday in a letter to stockholders, sent out from New York."

Subject to Changes.
It was signed by W. E. Corey, L. E. Block and John A. Topping, chairmen of the boards of the three companies. They stated that details of organization had not been definitely settled and that the plan was subject to changes to meet conditions and the opinion of counsel.

The Midvale and Inland companies will consolidate and take the name of the North American Steel Corporation, the latter explained, and this corporation will acquire, subject to its liabilities, the assets of the Republic company.

"Before the unification of the properties," the letter added, "Midvale will place its Nicetown plant and certain assets and liabilities connected with the operation of it as a separate corporation, stock of which will be distributed pro rata among the stockholders of the Midvale company. This separate corporation will thereafter continue as a separate enterprise for the manufacture of the ordnance, armor plate and special steel products to which it is adapted."

Capitalization Figures.
Capitalization under the consummated plan comprises $75,173,500 in bonds and other fixed charge obligations, $50,321,475 new preferred stock of $100 par value and $3,369,512 in shares of new common stock without par value.

The bonds and fixed charge obligations will consist of $60,599,500 in bonds and guaranteed obligations of the Midvale company or its subsidiaries, $13,257,000 and other obligations of Republic or its subsidiaries, and $5,217,000 bonds and other obligations of Inland, all of which, in addition to the other liabilities of the three companies, are to be assumed by the corporation.

The preferred stock is to be 7 per cent cumulative over the life of the corporation, to be paid until July 1, 1934, into common stock, four shares of preferred for five of common, and is to be redeemable at the option of the corporation at 115 per cent and accrued dividends."

ELLIS CASE REMANDED BECAUSE TRIAL COURT ADMITTED CONFESSION

Supreme Court Holds That Confession Was Involuntary and Obtained by Acts of Violence

METHODS USED BY POLICE ARE SEVERELY CENSURED

Inspector Gerk and Patrolman Sweetin Mentioned by Name—Conviction Followed Discovery of Girl's Body on Nov. 5, 1920.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 8.—The conviction of Albert Ellis, for the murder of Edna Ellis, his fiancée, in St. Louis, Nov. 4, 1920, was reversed today by the Supreme Court, and the case was remanded for a new trial, on the ground that Ellis' alleged confession, obtained by the police, was not voluntary, and should not have been admitted in evidence at the trial.

The court censures the policemen who obtained the confession, mentioning by name Lieut. (now Inspector) Joseph Gerk and Patrolman Sweetin. The court declares that "the conduct of the police officers, in needlessly laying hands on a helpless man while being detained without warrant, deserves the severest censure."

Edna Ellis, a telephone employee, was waylaid and killed as she walked from a street car toward her home at 1833 North Garrison avenue, and her body was found the next morning on a vacant lot near Glasgow avenue and North Market street. The jury's verdict in the trial of Albert Ellis fixed his punishment at life imprisonment. He is now in the St. Louis Jail.

Evoked Widespread Interest.
The Court's decision, rendered by Division No. 2, was written by Commissioner Albert L. Reeves of Kansas City, who has been appointed to his present position since the Ellis trial took place.

Members of the court who concurred in the decision were Judges Higbee, Walker and David E. Blair and Commissioner Ralley.

The Ellis case evoked perhaps more widespread interest in and near St. Louis than any crime of recent years. A fund was started, after his conviction, toward the expenses of Albert Ellis' appeal. In a motion for a new trial Ellis' counsel stated that new evidence favoring Ellis had been found and would be introduced in the event of a new hearing.

In the opinion Commissioner Reeves said that the Supreme Court, after reviewing the circumstances under which the police obtained the confession, found it to be involuntary and should not have been admitted in evidence at the trial.

The Court says no effort was made by the State to show the removal of the influence operating to produce the original confession. The opinion states that if the first confession was coerced, the presumption would arise that the second confession was the product of the same influence. A prisoner subjected to such rigid inquisition, the opinion says, "including violence to the person, and having witnessed gruesome and uncanny scenes such as those described, and to whom food and sleep had been denied so long, would not immediately thereafter be freed from the dominating influence of this experience, and a confession shortly thereafter, in the absence of proof to the contrary, must be adjudged involuntary."

The Court holds that the contention of Ellis' counsel that, aside from the alleged confession, the facts were insufficient to make a case for the jury; and that his murder to the evidence should have been sustained, is "wholly without merit."

The Court holds that the case should have gone to the jury on the other evidence, but that the confession should have been excluded.

Circuit Attorney Thinks Confession Can Be Obtained Without Coercion.

Circuit Attorney Sweetin, when informed of the Supreme Court's decision, said that he would ask for a new trial of the Ellis case at an early date.

"In advance of seeing a copy of the opinion," he said, "it seems to me that the Supreme Court has some merit in the presumption, otherwise the court would not have remanded the case for a new trial."

"I believe the State can convince a jury of his guilt. As soon as I have received a copy of the decision I shall consult with the chief of the Criminal Courts and have him

BANKERS GIVE UP PLAN OF MAKING LOAN TO GERMANY

Committee Meets to Formulate Report to Reparations Commission to That Effect—Opinion Among Financiers Is That Lenders Lack Unanimity.

INFLATION OF CURRENCY CONTINUES

Stinnes, at Conference of German Industrial and Economic Leaders, Says Short-Term Loan Would Not Help Situation.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, June 8.—All idea of an international loan to Germany has been given up by the committee of bankers, and they are meeting today to agree upon the form of their report to this effect, which will be submitted to the Reparations Commission.

The work of formulating the report, it is stated, may take two or three sittings. The prevailing conviction among the members of the bankers' committee is that two things are necessary to a loan: First, unanimity among the lenders, which were to include all the countries represented on the Reparations Commission; second, that the credit basis of Germany must be outlined clearly.

The bankers look upon the Reparations Commission's reply to their recent note as an official declaration that unanimity does not exist among the prospective lenders.

Short Term Loan Not Sufficient, Stinnes Tells Conference of Leaders. ESSEN, Germany, June 8.—At a meeting, called by the Essen Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Hugh Stinnes told a conference of Germany's leading industrial and economic experts that, should the Paris committee of bankers decide to grant the Reich only a small loan, it will only aggravate the situation.

He believes such an advance would tend to increase the value of the paper mark, but this would be only "artificial stabilization." Temporary overvaluation of the value of the mark and consequent suffering would result, he declared.

"Reparations," Herr Stinnes went on, "is a question of life or death for Germany. In order to live, pay reparations, take up our loans and pay the interest, we must increase production to the extent of 2,000,000 marks annually. Working men must work more, but they won't as long as a life sentence is the single aim held out to them and their life savings are taken away to pay reparations."

"A short term loan spells more misery and uncertainty. We must urge, even at the risk of further invasion, that reparations be considerably reduced and fixed so they can be covered by a long term international loan."

WOMAN HURT IN FALL FROM MUNICIPAL COURTS WINDOW

She Gives Her Name as Mrs. Blanche Porter of East Alton, But Refuses to Explain Actions.

Ferd Knittel, clerk of the Courts of Criminal Correction, gleaning up from his desk in the Municipal Courts Building today noon, saw a woman's legs dangling from a window across an alleyway. She appeared to be trying to reach a ledge three feet below the window, and, reaching it, slipped and fell 14 feet to the ground.

At the city hospital, it was found that she had suffered a fracture of one of the vertebrae of her spinal column, and cuts and bruises. She said she was Mrs. Blanche Porter of East Alton, Ill., and would not explain her actions. She was poorly dressed. A bottle was found on the sill of the window from which she climbed.

RAIL UNION HEADS PREDICT HEAVY VOTE FOR STRIKE

Forecasts Made in Face of Statements by Executives of Lines That Employees Don't Want a Walkout.

JULY 15 LIKELY DATE FOR STRIKE

Labor Chiefs Consider Possibility of Action by A. F. L., Which Convenes in Cincinnati Saturday.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 8.—Railroad unions are continuing preparations today for their strike vote, with leaders predicting that the referendum will be heavily in favor of a suspension of work in protest against wage reductions made by the Railroad Labor Board.

These predictions were made in the face of statements by several railroad presidents that strike sentiment was largely confined to union leaders and that there was good reason to doubt whether the sentiment would saturate the nation's railway workers.

If the ballots call for a strike when they are returned June 30, the day before $110,000,000 is to be slashed off the wages of shop and maintenance-of-way employees, the suspension probably will become effective July 15, according to leaders of the rail unions.

Suggestion of General Strike.

While rail executives and union leaders were weighing the chances of a strike, some of the union chiefs were considering the possibilities of a coalition between the rail workers and the striking coal miners and the possibility of action by the American Federation of Labor at its Cincinnati convention, which opens Saturday, looking toward a general strike of organized labor at the time of the proposed railroad walkout.

A strike vote and an actual strike, however, are quite two different things, according to some of the railroad presidents. The statement expressing doubt whether the strike sentiment would echo through the rank and file of the unions was signed by the following rail executives: H. E. Byram, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Hale Holden, Burlington, W. H. Finley, Northern, western; J. E. Gorman, Rock Island; C. H. Markham, Illinois Central; and S. M. Felton, Chicago & Great Western.

Rail Presidents' Statement, in Part.

A part of the statement reads as follows: "Threats of a strike, made by leaders of the railroad labor unions, are appearing with such frequency that the time seems opportune for questioning the soundness of their talk. There is very a good reason for doubting whether the men themselves, who are the backbone of the unions, really are in sympathy with resistance to the decisions of the United States Railway Labor Board."

"The truth is that the men have been expecting a reduction in their wages and have made or are making preparations to meet the new scale. There is no talk of strike among the men. The disturbing statements read by the public are prepared by leaders of the unions."

Class One Railroads in April Earned 3.93 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 8.—Net income of class one railroads for the month of April amounted to $50,258,800, according to compilations made today from Interstate Commerce Commission reports by the Association of Railway Executives. The companies reporting operate approximately 240,000 miles of a total of 260,000 miles of road in the country.

The amount represented an earning rate of 3.93 per cent of the tentative valuation of property of roads reporting, the Association said, and compared with a rate of 2.33 per cent for the same month last year.

Mule Prices on Way to Normalcy.

Mule prices are returning to pre-war levels. Supply Commissioner Oetting yesterday bought 25 mules, averaging 1200 pounds, at $154.50 each. Mules bought by the city last year cost $208, and in the previous year $257 was paid. The price paid yesterday is the lowest in several years, Oetting said. The animals will be used to pull city garbage wagons.

COOK COMES INTO $500,000 FROM OIL, BUT WON'T QUIT

Worker on One Job for 39 Years to Get New Screen Door and Paint House, However.

GREENVILLE, Tex., June 8.—John Lindley, who has cooked for 39 years for J. P. Beckham here, will continue cooking for Beckham, although a lawyer has told him he is going to get a half-million dollars for a piece of oil land down toward Mexia that John has owned ever since slave days.

This is what John is going to do with the money: First, there is that little second-hand Ford truck that John has had his eye on for quite a spell. John plans to buy it.

Then, if there is any money left, he is going to fix up his house, buy a new screen door, as the old one is warped; put on some fresh paint and otherwise improve the premises.

Finally, he is going to take care of all the kitchen help at the hotel that needed taking care of.

John's property is in the center of the Mexia oil district, and 14 producing wells have already been brought in on the little farm.

Maximum Penalty Assessed by Justice Marcus of New York Supreme Court.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 8.—Supreme Court Justice Marcus today sentenced the American Cotton Exchange, convicted yesterday of permitting members to "bucket" to pay a fine of $5000, the maximum penalty.

Justice Marcus dismissed a petition of Col. George W. Pratt, one of six members and officers indicted for bucketing, for an inspection of the grand jury minutes, and for an order dismissing the complaint. He reserved decision on motion for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

U. R. SEEKING BOND EXTENSION

Permission to Complete Transaction With North American Co. Requested.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, June 8.—The United Railways Co. of St. Louis today applied to the Missouri Public Service Commission for authority to complete a transaction with the North American Co. of New York.

A strike vote and an actual strike, however, are quite two different things, according to some of the railroad presidents. ## MAN SHOT IN QUARREL SUCCUMBS TO WOUNDS

Eugene Fazel, Held for Shooting, Says Alexander Chulick Insulted His Wife.

Alexander A. Chulick, 32, an undertaker, of 1903 Lafayette avenue, died last night at Barnes Hospital from bullet wounds in the abdomen, inflicted May 20 by Eugene Fazel, 32, a concrete worker, of 5245 Hamilton avenue, St. Louis County.

The shooting occurred on a lot at Willow-Wood and Melrose avenues, St. Louis County, where Chulick was supervising the erection of a dance pavilion. Fazel is a prisoner in the Clayton Jail, having failed to furnish a $5000 bond.

Fazel told the police that Chulick had insulted Mrs. Fazel when she went to recover a hat lost by their 10-year-old nephew, when Chulick claimed him and several of his playmates away from the lot. When he demanded an apology, he said, Chulick made a motion toward his pocket and he shot him twice.

Chulick is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva Stachura Chulick, and four children.

set the case for as early a date as possible.

Officer Sweetin said today, when informed of the Supreme Court's action, that he did not think he should be censured. "The slap Ellis got," he said, "wouldn't hurt a child."

Inspector Gerk said he had no comment to make.

Albert Ellis, when he was told this afternoon, in the city jail, of the court's decision in his case, showed glee, and exclaimed: "Well, I ought to walk now." In prisoner's speech, "to walk" means to go free.

"I have always said I was not guilty," he said. "The Judge didn't give me a square deal when he admitted that confession. With the confession out, I ought to go free."

A nurse passed, and Ellis called to her, "I got a new trial. The court threw out the confession."

"I've been in here 19 months," he continued to the reporter. "My lawyer, Mr. Bates, has put up a good fight for me. If I had to go to the gallows I would still maintain that I did not commit that crime."

Ethna R. Ellis, 18 years old, of 1832 North Garrison avenue, a stenographer in the main downtown office of the Bell Telephone Co., was murdered with a razor the night of Nov. 4, 1920, in a vacant lot at Glasgow avenue, and North Market street. Albert Ellis, then 21 and living at 4605 Sacramento avenue, who previously had been her suitor, was arrested.

At his trial, which began Jan. 6, 1921, and lasted for 10 days, his alleged confession to the police of the Dayton Street District was offered as the most important evidence against him. His lawyer tried to keep the confession from the jury on the ground that it had been obtained by the police by "third degree" methods. Ellis, on the stand in the absence of the jury, testified that the police had subjected him to an examination lasting more than 18 hours, that they repeatedly dragged him from his cell and beat him and that he finally signed the confession to avoid further punishment.

The State advanced the theory that jealousy was the motive for the murder. It was pointed out in the outline of the case to the jury that Ellis had been rejected as a suitor by Miss Ellis, and that the murder was committed in a spirit of revenge.

Ellis did not take the witness stand in the presence of the jury, but relatives set up an alibi for him, claiming that at the time of the murder, he was at home helping a younger sister with her school lessons.

The State asked for the death penalty, but the jury, which had the option of inflicting the death penalty or life imprisonment, sentenced him to life imprisonment.

Following refusal of a new trial,

$500,000 BUILDING FOR TOWNS PLAN OF THE CITY CLUB

Negotiations Under Way for 10-Story Structure's Site Expected to Be Closed in 10 Days.

'REAL CIVIC CENTER,' ORGANIZATION OBJECT

Association With More Than 1400 Members Proposes to Increase Number to 3000—Activities Scope.

The City Club has announced that it plans to erect a $500,000 club building, downtown, this year. Negotiations are under way for the ground and may be closed within 10 days. Various sites have been under consideration.

The building probably will be about 10 stories. The ground and second floors would be rented and the remainder devoted to clubrooms and living apartments for members.
"We plan to make the club a real civic center for St. Louis," George B.
Lohan, the president, said today.
"We want to enlarge the club's usefulness to the city. There will not be gymnasium or swimming facilities."

The club has the money to buy the site and has received assurances from bankers that money could be borrowed with the ground as security, to erect the structure.

PASTOR WHO RESIGNED SAYS QUARREL IS CLOSED INCIDENT

The Rev. M. Levin Kramer Quit Church When Board Charged He Left Bills Unpaid.

The Rev. M. Levin Kramer, pastor of the Zion Evangelical Church, Twenty-fifth and Benton streets, who resigned recently following charges by the church board that he permitted his meat and grocery bills to remain too long unpaid and that his purchase of a second-hand automobile for his parish calls was unwarranted on his $2900 a year salary, today declared that he had no complaint against anyone and that the matter was now a closed incident, with "full harmony on all sides."

He added that the bills had not been paid, and that the second-hand car had been sold some time ago, when he and his wife felt that its usefulness to the church had been somewhat impaired by the incident, however, he offered the board his resignation May 22, and it was submitted to the congregation the next week.

The church voted not to accept it, but the Rev. Mr. Kramer insisted.
He is to leave Aug. 15, but does not yet know where he will go. He has been with the church for four years.
He is 39 years old.

HOGAN'S APPLICATION FOR PISTOL PERMIT WITHDRAWN

"Jelly Roll" Leader's Action Follows Truce Between Gangs Arranged by Father Dempsey.

Edward J. (Jelly Roll) Hogan, leader of "Hogan's gang," which has been at warfare with "Egan's rats," yesterday withdrew an application he had made to the police for license as private watchman, which would authorize him to carry a weapon. It became known yesterday that Father Timothy Dempsey had effected a truce between the Hogan and Egan factions, whose enmity has resulted in seven gang killings in the last year.

Hogan demanded the application last week when arrested at Sixth street and Lucas avenue in an automobile in which three pistols and two revolvers were found. Hogan was carrying one of the weapons.
He declared that he frequently carried State money as a Deputy Beverage Inspector, and that his life had been threatened. Police always investigate applications for watchmen's licenses. When officers went to Hogan's home to begin such an investigation, Hogan returned the blow to them.

HENRY C. GRENNER DIES SUDDENLY AT HAMILTON HOTEL

Former Collector of Internal Revenue Stricken With Apoplexy at Political Meeting.

SINKS IN CHAIR AND DIES IN FEW MINUTES

Survived by Wife With Whom He Resided at Hotel
—Was 67 and Had Lived Here 34 Years.

Henry C. Grenner, 67 years old, president of the Automobile Gasoline Co., and former United States Collector of Internal Revenue, died of apoplexy in the first-floor corridor of the Hamilton Hotel last night. He and Mrs. Grenner resided at the hotel.

The new Twenty-eighth Ward Republican Club, of which Grenner was a member, was meeting at the time in the dining room of the hotel.
Grenner had been in the meeting for a few minutes, and had remarked, before going in, that he intended to ask the club to indorse Walter J. G.
Neun for City Committeeman from the Twenty-eighth Ward.

Was Interested in Meeting.
The club, which has city hall affiliations, was understood in advance of the meeting to have been formed partly for the purpose of opposing Neun, who is supported by the present committeeman, Joseph B.
Thomas. C. R. Gillespie, a city hall employee, who is a candidate for committeeman, was known several days ago to have the backing of the leaders in the new organization.

Whether Grenner was familiar with this situation is not known. He seems to have discovered it as soon as he entered the meeting, for, after remaining a few minutes, he returned to the corridor and remarked to Alice Vest, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue:

"There is no use of making a speech in there; they have already made up their minds whom they are going to choose."

Sinks in Chair in Corridor.
He sank in a chair, and Vest and others saw that he was losing consciousness. Physicians were called, but he was dead in a few minutes.
Grenner was born in Philadelphia, and was brought up in New York City. He was editor of a newspaper in Tusculum, Pa., before he came to

CALIFORNIA KLAN HEADS AMONG 37 INDICTED FOR RAID

Five Counts of Felony Charges Against Alleged Participants in Englewood Affair on April 22.

CONSTABLE KILLED,
2 WERE WOUNDED.

Grand Goblin and King Kleagle Will Appear in Court Today to Answer Charges, Attorney Says.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 8.—Three high officers and 34 alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan were indicted by the Los Angeles County grand jury yesterday on five counts of felony charges in connection with a raid at Englewood, near here, April 22.

The Klan officers were William S. Coburn, grand goblin of the Pacific domain and supreme attorney of the order; G. W. Price, King Kleagle for the State of California, and N. A. Baker, Kleagle organizer for the County of Los Angeles. Baker is under arrest here, while Coburn and Price are understood to be in the East.

Kidnaping Charges.
The charges are false imprisonment, two counts; kidnaping, two counts; and assault with intent to commit murder, one count. Although the three officers have been suspended, according to word from Atlanta headquarters of the Klan, they have continued to function here and have been recognized by klansmen as having possession of all the authority of their offices. Bail was fixed for each of the defendants in the amount of $10,000, except in the case of Baker, self-admitted leader in the raid, in whose case it was set at $10,000. He is in custody in the psychopathic ward of the county hospital owing to a mental breakdown.

An attorney for the klansmen announced that the other indicated klansmen would appear in Superior Court here today and in view of this no warrants were issued.

Shot in Crowd.
The Englewood raid was directed at Fidel and Mathias Elduayen, proprietors of a licensed winery. The Elduayens were taken from their home at night, bound and carried to the police station at Inglewood and Redondo Beach, at both of which places the authorities refused to accede to a demand by the captors that they be locked up as bootleggers.

While the raid was in progress, Frank Woerner, Deputy Marshal of Inglewood, appeared and ordered the raiders to disperse. Revolvers were leveled at Woerner, and he emptied his pistol into the crowd. Constable M. B. Mosher, Walter Mosher, son of the Constable, and Ruegg dropped. The Constable died later.

HAIRDRESSERS TO QUIT CUTTING CHILDREN'S HAIR

Members of the Association to Continue Bobbing Hair for Women Under Agreement With Barbers. The Hairdressers and Comedians' Association, comprising about 250 members in St. Louis, agreed with the State Board of Barber Examiners at a meeting at the Jefferson Hotel Tuesday night that the hairdressers would cease cutting children's hair, at once. They will continue, however, to bob hair for women.

The State board had planned to take legal action against the hairdressers if they did not stop what was considered encroachment on the field of the barber shops, under a recent opinion of the Attorney-General. It is not thought that bobbing women's hair infringes on the barbers' rights, because the process involves curling and because women are not wont to go into barber shops.

(Aids to Beauty)
A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy growths and merely in more than one treatment required. The hair is removed with some powdered substance and water applied with the fingers and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off with the palm and water. The hair will fall out and never again grow. This simple treatment should be resorted to get final solution.

ROBBERY SENTENCE SET ASIDE Man Who Used Tin as Pistol in Hold-up Found to Be Insane.

A previous sentence of five years in the penitentiary for robbery, assessed in the case of Enoch F. Buck, 48 years old, was set aside yesterday by the verdict of a jury in the Circuit Court which found Buck insane and committed him to the city sanitarium. Buck pleaded guilty May 2 of a charge of having held up Frank

Singleton, 1535 North Sixteenth street, a negro. Singleton claimed he was robbed of $10 at the point of a revolver. Buck said he used a piece of tin, pretending it was a weapon, and that he took only 5 cents from Singleton. Relatives testified that he had been in a sanitarium on various occasions.

RECORD FOR PLACING CHILDREN IN HOMES

More Adoptions in State for Past Two Months Than in Previous Like Period.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 8.
—More dependent children have been placed in good homes by the State of Missouri during the last two months than during any previous similar period in the history of the State, reports by Mrs. H. M.
Robertson, director of the children's bureau of the State Board of Charities and Corrections show.
The record number of homes found—for 32 children—is the more remarkable, says Homer Talbot, secretary of the charities board, considering the unusual care taken by the board in the investigation and approval of homes making application for the children and in view of the limited appropriation for the home-finding work.
One hundred and thirty-five homeless children from 30 Missouri Counties have been cared for by the children's bureau since its establishment under an appropriation last year. These are those for whom homes have been found, 58 boys and girls, cared for by the State at the Children's Home at Carrollton and in private homes in Jefferson City, are still looking for dads and mothers who will treat them as their own, Secretary Talbot says.
Mrs. Laura O. Green is children's agent and Miss Willie T. Bryant is child placing agent.

TO BE A CENTENARIAN, BE CHEERFUL, PHYSICIAN ADVISES

Doctor, Addressing Laundry Workers, Also Recommends Plenty of Exercise and Care of Diet.
To become a centenarian an individual must take plenty of exercise, use extreme care in selecting foods and be of a cheerful disposition at all times, said Dr. Charles E. Barker of Grand Rapids, Mich., lecturer of the International Rotary Clubs, in an address to delegates to the sixteenth annual convention of the Missouri Laundry Owners' Association, yesterday, at Hotel Statler, on "How to Live 100 Years."
Breathing exercises for four or five minutes each day, Dr. Barker added, will do much to obtain a normal chest and lung expansion. He said 92 per cent of the women and 68 per cent of the men over 35 years old have either sub-normal chest or lung expansion, indicating that the lung muscles are not working properly.
Clothing is responsible for clogging up millions of the skin pores during the winter, preventing nature from discharging impure substances through skin pores. He explained that this existed in the winter and not in the summer because of the difference in clothes worn.
This defect causes a large portion of the winter diseases, such as grip, pneumonia and bronchitis, he asserted. Use of flesh brushes or rough Turkish towels are remedies, he said.
Intestinal sluggishness, he asserted, can be cured by internal remedies. Instead he advocated a diet which in brief is as follows: Drinking a glass of hot water, followed by cold water, before breakfast, abdominal exercises, refrain from eating meat, white bread, cheese, gravy and other greasy substances, and never eat fried potatoes, but eat plenty of rough cereals, green vegetables, fresh fruits and nuts, and drink between eight and twelve glasses of water each day.

LONG RECEIVED WITH ENTHUSIASM IN RALLS COUNTY

St. Louisan Arouses His Hearers to Cheers Time and Again by His Denunciation of Reed.

THREE ADDRESSES MADE DURING DAY

Opponent of Senator Displays Spirit and Fire Not Heretofore Noticeable in His Campaign.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW LONDON, Mo., June 8.—Breckenridge Long in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator yesterday occupied a full day and made three speeches in Ralls County, where the sentiment for Senator Reed, his opponent, is pronounced and which many experienced politicians assert Reed will carry.

Although Long was greeted with an enthusiasm at all three meetings which would seem to belie the reported strength of Reed in the county, there is no doubt that the Reed sentiment is here. There were many Reed supporters in the Long audiences, particularly in New London last night, but the audience was overwhelmingly for Long, as demonstrated time and again when Long aroused his hearers to outbursts by rebukes of Reed, and stirred them to cheers by his denunciation of Reed.

Close Vote Predicted. However, there were gathered about the door of the courthouse before Long began speaking more than 20 men, each of whom was a supporter of Reed but that he intended to hear Long. Among them was Drake Watson, former Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, who is considered the Reed leader in Ralls County. Watson expressed the opinion that the vote of the county would be very close, but he said he thought at the present time that Long had a slight advantage.

Watson is known as a conservative and is well informed on the politics of the county and Northeast Missouri. He has been a consistent supporter of Reed for several years, and it was on his proxy that Lee Meriwether of St. Louis gained a seat in the Democratic State convention in Joplin two years ago to make the unsuccessful fight for Reed when Reed was seeking a place on the Missouri delegation to the Democratic national convention in San Francisco to fight endorsement of the League of Nations in the Democratic national platform.

Watson at that time was severely criticized by other members of the Ralls County delegation, but he appeared in the Reed ranks again this year. In addition to the Watson influence, which is considerable, the influence of Henry S. Priest, the Reed antagonist candidate for Senator in 1920, is being exerted for Reed, and his effect is noticeable. Priest was born in this county and has a wide acquaintance here.

Vote of County in 1920. Ralls was one of the few counties which Priest in 1920 came near carrying. Long won the county, but he received only 482 votes to 453 for Priest. Charles M. Hay was third with 322.

The indications are that Reed will carry New London, and also will carry a good chance of carrying Jasper and Saline townships. Jasper in the southern end of the county and Saline in the northwestern part of the county. On the other hand, Center Township and Perry, in Salt River Township, two strong Democratic communities, are considered safe for Long by good majorities. The Long supporters by no means concede New London to Reed, and it is reasonably certain that the vote here will be close.

As in nearly all the other counties the Democratic political organization of Ralls County is supporting Long. Nearly all, if not all, the members of the Democratic County Committee are counted in the Long column, and it is said that only one county official is opposing him. Both candidates for the nomination of Prosecuting Attorney are for Long. Only one newspaper in the county is supporting Reed, that being the Ralls County Record, published at New London by G. D. Harris and J. P. Fisher.

It is expected that about 5500 votes will be cast in the Democratic primary in this county, and on the present showing Long will be fortunate if he obtains a majority of more than 500 in the county, though the organized political supporters he has in the seven weeks of campaigning which remain may be able to increase it considerably above that figure.

Speaks in Three Towns. Long's afternoon speeches yesterday were in Center and Perry. He had about 150 in the Center and about 300 in the Perry audience. More than 300 persons all the Circuit Court room would hold, heard his New London speech.

Joseph F. Barry of New London, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, presided at the meeting last night and introduced Long in a speech in which he declared that

SAFE WORKER CAPTURED AFTER CHASE AND SHOTS
Former Employee at Y. W. C. A. Cafeteria Interrupted at Work, Police Say.

A policeman, passing the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria at Grand and Delmar boulevards last night at 11 o'clock, noticed that the blinds were down, contrary to custom. As a result, the police are holding a youth who says he is Frank Gilkye, 18 years old, 2238A Dodder street, a former employee at the cafeteria. The combination of the safe within the cafeteria, the police found, had been knocked off. They say they have Gilkye's confession.

The policeman, George Cheskeet of the Laclede District, found the rear door had been opened. He found the safe had been tampered with, but found no one about. He conjectured that, perhaps, as on a previous occasion, the burglars, failing to open the safe, had departed for an automobile to haul it away. He and another policeman took up a watch in the shadows of Union M. E. Church, at the rear of the cafeteria on Delmar and presently saw a figure emerge through the open rear door. They gave chase through streets and alleys, firing their revolvers. They captured the fugitive at 3536 Morgan street.

The captive said that during his employment in the cafeteria, when drawn the blinds and was at work on the safe when the policeman entered. He said he hid in a washroom, the existence of which the policeman did not know.

They were allowed three days to file briefs, at the end of which time the city will be given 10 days in which to file an answer.

What Is a Good Shoe?

Shoemaker of genuine American Kangaroo Boots and Shoes for men and women

THAT question can be answered by asking another one—What is a good foot?

A good foot doesn't ache. It doesn't sag down in the middle. It is springy in action. It doesn't easily get tired. It is free from callouses and corns. And it is good to look at because it isn't deformed.

And a good shoe doesn't make the foot tired. It supports the arch. It is flexible and responds to every movement. It is so comfortable that the foot isn't conscious of wearing it. And it is smart-looking, long-wearing and shape-keeping.

Good shoes and good feet travel together.

Edwin Clapp Shoes will give you that comfort, value and satisfaction we have described.
Your feet will feel good in them—because for sixty-nine years no finer shoes have been made on this continent.

Just try a pair.

All This Week—Special Demonstration of Detroit Jewel Gas Ranges

At Our 9th & Washington Store

Jewel Ranges have no equal when it comes to real performance.
And that's just what this demonstration is going to prove.
Come and see it. See the three supreme tests to which the Jewel will be subjected.

Test No. 1—Perfect baking with the oven door wide open.
Test No. 2—Boiling water in kettle suspended eighteen inches above the flame.
Test No. 3—Baking after the gas has been completely turned off.

Any Range able to do all that must be a mighty good Range. You'll see the Jewel do it, if you attend this demonstration. A domestic science expert will be here to explain how the Jewel is made and why it does such superb cooking and baking. Under her direction meals will be prepared on the Jewel every day—and you may sample them.

$5 Down Delivers a Jewel to You

Jewel Gas and Combination Ranges are

$18 ROBBERY RESULTS IN COMEDY OF ERRORS

Holdup Man Makes Mistake, Victim Makes Two and Former Escapes After Chase.

Bert Covert, 34 years old, who conducts a pastry shop in the basement at 702 North Sarah street, used two automobiles in chasing a robber who held him up at 6:40 a. m. today, but the robber was fleet of foot and got away. Covert, aside from mourning the loss of $18, regarded the robbery as an amusing incident.

"The robber and I both made errors," he said. "He was not more than 5 feet 3 inches tall, and chunky. His face was dirty, but he wore good clothes. He called for a loaf of bread and when I reached into the case he pointed a little bit of a pistol at me and told me to 'wick' em up."

It wasn't a closet. "The cash box was in the bread case and he had no difficulty in reaching the money. Then he pointed to a door in the back of the shop and told me to 'get into that closet.' That was an error on his part, because it was not a closet door. It opened into a hallway leading to an alley behind the shop."

"I figured that I could head off the robber by running through the alley and so I ran north to Enright avenue, but that was my error. The robber ran south on Sarah street toward Washington boulevard, and when I reached Sarah street he was more than a block away from me."

Wouldn't Speed Up. "I jumped into an automobile that was passing and followed him to the alley between Washington and Delmar. He ran east in the alley and I continued the chase on foot. When he was a half block east of Sarah street he ran into a yard leading to Delmar."

"When I reached Delmar I saw him heading for Vandeventer avenue and I pressed another automobile into service. The selection of this car was mistake No. 2. I told the driver I was chasing a robber, but I could not get him to speed up. He did not go faster than about a mile an hour, and when we reached Vandeventer avenue I could find no trace of the robber."

LETMAR CLUB BUYS BUILDING FOR WORKING GIRLS' HOME

Place at 4240-42-44 Olive Street Will Be Opened After Renovation of Structure.

The Letmar Club Association, organized in the autumn of 1915 by Miss Mary Semple Scott of 6054 Pershing avenue, and Miss Letitia Parker of 501 Clara avenue, to provide a home for working girls, but inactive for more than a year through lack of quarters, has purchased the brick building at 4240-42-44 Olive street, from Mrs. Elizabeth Rosecrance, and will open a new home there as soon as the structure has been renovated. The sale price was $14,000, and $5000 is to be spent in improvements. Miss Scott said, John A. Watkins & Co., real estate agents, representing both buyer and seller, handled the transaction without charge.

Miss Scott, president of the association, said the new home will accommodate 28 girls. The building was cleaned by two drives, one in December, 1919, and another in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A. in March, 1920, of which the Letmar Club received 3 per cent. The new home is to be known as the Letmar Club Branch of the Y. W. C. A. About $2 a week will be charged for rooms. The girls will take meals at the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria across the street. The home will be ready about Sept. 1.

Effect of Washington's Humidity on Legislation a Field for Psycho-Analyst

With Temperature in Chamber Sweltering and Rival Candidates Active at Home, Senators' Reaction Might Have a Bearing in Vote on Wool Tariff.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—A psychoanalyst looking for a new field to explore might try his hand on a study of the effect of weather on legislation. If he could stand the weather himself, he would find Washington, at the present moment, an excellent laboratory for his investigation. He would probably start in with the Senate, which is now wrestling with the tariff bill. Questions like the following would suggest themselves:

What is the reaction of a Senator to a drop of perspiration stinging him in the eye?

If a rivulet of the same is trickling down his back, how long can he be expected to stay on his feet in opposition to a tariff on lemons?

If the sight of red induces a fear of the color, how much is a Senator's efficiency reduced through looking at the streaming face of Tom Heflin?

Insufficient things, like Mrs. O'Leary's cow, the apple in the garden of Eden and the bullet fired at Sarajevo, have altered the destinies of men and nations.

Wisdom of Founders Questioned. Is it not possible that a Senator's mid-summer afternoon's dream of the cooling showers in the Senate office building or the greens on the Chevy Chase links may have its effect on his vote if he remains to vote on the woolen goods schedule?

Looking at the dreary scene in the Senate chamber, as fewer than a dozen members of the greatest legislative body in the world talk solemnly about the tariff, one wonders whether the august founders knew what they were doing when they set the Capitol of the nation on the low-lying banks of the Potomac.

Washington is delightful in the spring and fall. But in the summer that famous old commander, General Humidity, claims it as his own. The only redeeming thing about the humidity is the food it furnishes for conversation.

When talk between any two residents of Washington languishes, one says "It's hot today," and the other replies, "Well, the temperature is not so great, but the humidity is awful." The formula never varies.

The alibi usually offered for the failure of the Washington baseball team, as a rule, to finish above the second division is that humidity saps its "pep." Washington is known to furnish as one of the best "road clubs" in the American League.

The thought intrudes itself that it might be worth the expense to the nation to send the House and Senate to a cooler climate to do their summer legislating. The House and Senate would welcome the change. Better still, from their point of view, would be no summer legislating at all. Time was, in the previous days of normalcy, when Congress held its two regular sessions and took the summer off. Congressional duties were a side line; a man could be a Congressman and at the same time run a bank, a law business or a farm. Being a Congressman today, with extra sessions apparently a permanent fashion, is practically an all-year-round job. Barring six months' break in 1920, during the presidential campaign of that year, Congress has been in virtually continuous session since December, 1915.

Eager to Get Back Home. This, too, is a campaign year, and the great majority of both House and Senate are eager to get back home to their fence mending. Not alone the heat, but the thought of the activity of rival candidates among the voters, is getting on congressional nerves. Three or four times in recent weeks the galleries have thrilled to the prospect of a fist fight on the floor of the House or Senate. No fight has occurred as yet, but with the humidity and the outlook for an early adjournment, Washington both increasing, there are still hopes.

President Harding, showing a firmness that some people didn't believe he possessed, has now decreed that Congress, before adjourning, must pass the subsidy. With the bonus and tariff bill still hanging fire, the passing of the new measure on the "must" calendar makes the outlook for an early adjournment dubious indeed.

Ventilation Poor. The self-pity with which the average Congressman views his lot in these July days is not diminished by his physical surroundings in the Capitol. The hall of the House and the chamber of the Senate being each a room within a room, are poor summer quarters. No effort has been made to improve the ventilation by cutting off a corridor from the public domain and adding it to the "Senate floor." This permits a hot, muggy air from the outside to stray into the Senate chamber through the open windows of the "marble room," where the Senators used to receive callers. The air in the chamber, however, remains oppressively thick and conducive to somnolence. Summer matting on the floor, electric fans, Palm Beach suits, the sweltering Senate in the midst of some thousands of amendments to the tariff bill has resorted to them all without getting any appreciable relief. Sit in the gallery for half an hour and you won't wonder why the Senator wants to go home.

How, with a bead of sweat in his eye, can a Senator, even of the glacial frigidity of Henry Cabot Lodge, concentrate his mind on public weal? The elevator boy in the Senate wing, who is something of a philosopher, remarked the other day that "legislation in there is in a hell of a mess," and added, as if by way of explanation, that "the humidity is something awful." He was correct in both remarks.

Chang and there is no intimation in any quarter that he has reached the end of his resources.

By their own statements, all Wu wants is a restoration of constitutional government. Wu is offering to fight it necessary.

WOMEN TO PUT QUESTIONS TO REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

Questionnaire Designed to Bring Out Record of Each as a Citizen.

Republican candidates in the August primary will be asked to fill out a questionnaire sent out by the Republican Women's Club of St. Louis containing 28 queries.

Each candidate is asked to give the names of three persons to whom the club can refer in investigating the candidate's character and ability. The other queries are office and residence address, age, married or single, membership of family, occupation or profession, name of employer, length of service, period of employment, names of schools attended and how long.

If elected, will you continue in your present business? Have you ever been connected in any way with any organization in any public utility? If so, describe connection or interest and length of time continued. What, if any, party or political position or offices have you held and length of time each?

If the candidate has held a national office, "What has been your record in Congress as to the tariff, the bonus, prohibition, interest in streets and sewers, schools, playgrounds? If elected to public office, will you place public interest above all other considerations, including party and political interest? If a candidate for judicial office, have you the endorsement of the St. Louis Bar Association?"

Wu's campaign in the North against Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian war lord with ambitions to make himself head of the Government in that region, was continued. Wu's Chihli troops yesterday added to the list of cities occupied, Chang Wang, China's principal port, according to official address to Wu's headquarters at Tientsin.

C. OF C. ASKS GOLTRA ABOUT BARGE SERVICE

Inquiry as to When Carrying Will Start Prompted by Impending Arrival of Grain.

The Chamber of Commerce today asked Edward F. Goltra by letter when the four towboats and 19 barges turned over to him by the Federal government would be placed in the business of carrying freight upon the Mississippi River.

The inquiry was prompted, the Chamber stated, by the impending arrival of the Kansas grain crop which will overtax the capacity of the present government-operated fleet.

"A number of Mississippi River barges with cargo boxes on them are tied up painfully at the municipal dock at this time," the letter stated, "by the piece-by-piece loading of long pieces of steel and tank plate consigned to foreign countries. The barges of the Mississippi-Warrior Service are all tied up for the class of freight, being designed for grain and high-class merchandise under cover."

"Your barges are ideal for structural steel business and they are lying idle, like the ship in the harbor," the letter stated, "and the loading of long pieces of steel and tank plate consigned to foreign countries is holding up the discharge of three cargoes with another fleet on its way up the river."

"The Chamber of Commerce is very anxious to have all possible facilities for the growing movement of freight and as a matter of information, could you tell us when your equipment will be available?" Goltra said today that he had not seen the Chamber of Commerce communication, but that representatives of the War Department were engaged in making an inventory of the fleet preparatory to obtaining its receipt for it. He said that after this was completed, the boats would have to be outfitted for service and that he would have to obtain the Secretary of War's approval to tentative cargoes.

SOCIAL PRECEDENCE QUESTION STUMPS WEEKS AND ROOSEVELT

Whether Major-General or Rear Admiral Ranks at Festivity to Be Decided Soon.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Secretary of War Weeks and Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt still are struggling with the question of social precedence as between a Major-General and a Rear Admiral, raised by Gov. Farrington of Hawaii.

Gov. Farrington apparently has been somewhat embarrassed at social functions by reason of not knowing to a certainty whether Major-General Charles P. Summerall, commanding the Hawaiian Department, or Rear Admiral Edward Simpson, commandant of the naval base at Pearl Harbor, should occupy the first place of honor at social functions.

Up to date the controversy has been a light comedy, law officers of the army holding that Gen. Summerall clearly is the ranking official officer in Hawaii, and the naval lawyers disagreeing with them. Meanwhile, Gen. Summerall and Admiral Simpson, neither of whom has peeped, are declared to be having quite a bit of fun over the situation and doing no worrying whatever.

Col. Roosevelt has arranged for a conference with Secretary Weeks, at which the acting Judge Advocate General of the army and the Judge Advocate General of the navy will be present and from which an amicable settlement is expected.

New York World Correspondent Reports Reed Is Beaten Today But Conditions May Change

Head of Washington Bureau, on Visit to Missouri, Reviews Elements That Indicate Long Now Has Decisive Advantage.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The World prints the following review of the Missouri Democratic senatorial campaign by Charles Michelson, chief of its Washington Bureau, who is in Missouri to study the situation.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.
ST. LOUIS, June 7.—As things stand today in Missouri, Senator James A. Reed is beaten for re-election. Last night he was beaten as to use Woodrow Wilson's term, a "marplot" should throw his hats too high in jubilation, let me hasten to add that he was much worse beaten when he was in the race. He is now and there is plenty of time between now and primary day, Aug. 1, for the situation to change, either way.

Apparently, as far as may be judged from a comparison of the views of opposing partisans among the Democrats—there are no neutrals—Reed's chances are waxing. A week ago they were waning and next week, if the women are permitted to carry out their intention of organizing Democratic clubs in advance of the primary, the waning is due to be even more perceptible, for the Reed people know that this means anti-Reed clubs and they have a healthy terror of the unknown potency of the women's vote. They know that the suggested clubs are against Reed, for the women are moving toward the organization of Woodrow Wilson-League-of-Nations worshippers, and when it comes to partisanship of that sort the female of the species lives up to the poem. Men voters will admit that there may be some remnant of virtue even in a man who has opposed their idol, but the woman League of Nations devotee countenances no such possibility.

Views on Wilson Intervention. There is a big question as to the effect of Wilson's intervention in this matter. The Reed people say it was a boomerang; that the proud and sensitive Missourian is offended to his marrow at this outside interference in a domestic quarrel. The Long people, on the other hand, say that party loyalty is a religion in Missouri and that the ex-President's injunction not only was not resented, but was the means of connecting the Reed people with the Long people. There seems, however, little doubt that Long will carry nearly every big Democratic ward, while Reed's strength lies in sections normally Republican, so while people here do not accept the Long prognostication for St. Louis, the Breckinridge Long hope of the Democratic party is not unfounded.

Ordinarily the best way to get a line on a Democratic primary is to go to the Republicans, and vice versa. The Long people, however, are not as good haters as the Reed Democrats are. They will go to the Reed people and get a line on the Long people. The Long people, on the other hand, are not as good haters as the Reed Democrats are. They will go to the Reed people and get a line on the Long people.

How Reed's Friends Figure It. On the other hand, the Reed supporters are the rebels; they saw the chief ruled out of the national convention two years ago; they have noted the bulls of excommunication issued from St. Street in Washington. Reed have burned their political bridges behind them and realize that if Long goes in on an issue of loyalty to Wilson there are no political loaves and fishes for the lieutenants of the man whom Wilson has singled out as the most unworthy of those who opposed him. Their only hope is to demonstrate that without them, Democratic victory in Missouri is impossible. This, at least in the Republican logic. Second, Reed as a candidate would draw a lot of Republican votes. The Germans and other Wilson-haters are for Reed naturally. Acute as is the dissatisfaction with the Republican Congress and the Republican administration generally, these elements of that party would vote Republican before they would vote Democrat.

Cox in Missouri. Except for such cases as this the campaign so far has been neither personally placed. Neither of the candidates has referred to the other directly, and even their indirect reference did not become acrid until the last few days. Now, however, there are indications that the wraps are going to be taken off and from this time on it is likely to be a rough-and-tumble affair. Long has already begun attacking Reed as a party traitor, using as his medium Reed's own speeches when he opposed David R. Francis, whom he called a traitor, for not supporting Bryan in 1896. Reed is getting back by talking about rubber-stamp Senators.

In the campaigning all the advantage lies with Reed. He always gives a good show, and the people will always come farther and in

SOVIET GOES OUTSIDE STATE IN LAND DEAL

247,000-Acre Transaction With Italian Red Immigrants Regarded as Unusual.

(Copyright, 1932.)
ROME, June 7.—The Italian newspapers comment acutely on a new phase of soviet relations with Italy. This consists of an agreement which has just been signed between the two great Italian red co-operatives and the Russian economic delegation now visiting this country.

The agreement, which is independent of the treaty between Italy and the soviet, signed by Chicherin and Signor Schanzer, Italy's Foreign Minister, provides for a concession of not less than 100,000 hectares (247,000 acres) of Russian soil to the Italian metal workers' co-operative and the red co-operative of Forli Province, the two largest extreme labor organizations in this country.

First Deal of Kind. Signor Bombacci, Italy's leading communist member of Parliament, is largely responsible for the Italian part in this negotiation. The importance of the concession lies, of course, in the fact that such a huge tract of Russian land is placed at the entire disposal of Italian co-operatives. But this importance is added by the fact that the soviet are dealing for the first time with a foreign enterprise not controlled by the state.

The concession is for 24 years and is renewable at will, the Italian co-operative guaranteeing to get the Russian land under cultivation within six years from today.

Opinion on Deal. The soviet give full guarantees for the safety and liberty of the Italian tillers and will receive a varying percentage of the grain produced by the Italians, according to the nature of the soil. Bombacci says the land will yield 100,000 tons of grain a year, most of which will be exported to Italy.

While the Socialist newspapers and those who support former Premier Nitti praise the enterprise, all other parties condemn it as being difficult of realization and dangerous for the Italian immigrants.

cern in the districts that Watson controlled, but to leave that part of Indiana to them and devote his attention to the rest of the State, and yet, when it came to primary day, bow, knees, stilling, poland, mat, ches, abers, scimlins, bolos and everything else that would cut were in all the Watson districts, and Harry New is still musing on the inadequacy of the Watsonian explanation of grief and amazement as a poultice to the resulting wounds.

The Long people point out that the fabric of the Republican logic is deciding to let the Watsonian explanation of grief and amazement as a poultice to the resulting wounds.

Reed's Handicap Apparently Insurmountable. There are a thousand complications in the struggle; sequels to old political feuds, obligations of ancient political friendships, municipal elections and all the rest of it, including natural charges that the other fellow by his candidacy is perilling what would otherwise be a certainty of restoring Missouri to the Democratic column both as to State and national, but the biggest thing of all is the issue of Wilson—the question whether a man who has stood out against his party at Washington on the biggest issue of that party's modern history and whose political function has been asked for by the President he did so much to thwart can win against all these odds.

To an outsider it does not seem possible, and the fact that Reed is for the first time on the defensive, curbing his sarcasm, checking his gift of splendid vituperation, trying to win over Wilson supporters by minimizing the difference between himself and the ex-President who has assailed him, seems to show that Reed himself knows that it is the steepest sort of uphill fight.

RATE CUT ORDER MODIFIED

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted permission to the country's railroads to file tariffs in conformity with the general 10 per cent reduction of freight rates effective July 1, on three days' notice, instead of the 10 days' notice as provided in the original report.

PROVISIONS OF SOLDIER BONUS BILL NOW READY TO BE PRESENTED TO SENATE

Immediate Consideration of Measure Not to Be Asked For and It Probably Will Not Be Taken Up Until Tariff Is Disposed Of.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 8.—An effort to present the soldiers' bonus bill to the Senate today was blocked by Senator Williams, Democrat, Mississippi.

Because of parliamentary procedure under which the Senate was operating, unanimous consent was necessary to present the bill and the report, which earlier in the day had been made public by Senator McCumber. Senator Williams of the Finance Committee, and an opponent of the legislation, refused such consent.

Asserting that Congress had paid the claims against the Government of "war profiteers" and that every time an effort was made to pay compensation to the soldiers there was objection, Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, urged Senator McCumber to move that the bill be received. Senator McCumber explained that he could not offer such a motion because there was a general agreement that the tariff bill would not be laid aside for controversial measures without advance notice being given.

Would Avoid Partisan Fight. The Finance Committee said he did not know when the measure would be called up, but hoped the bonus would not lead to a partisan fight.

Some ceremony attended the removal of the bill from the Finance Committee quarters in the Senate office building to the Capitol, Senator McCumber was accompanied by representatives of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations, while motion picture machines ground away.

Many former service men were present in the Senate galleries to witness the formal reception. An accompanying report placed the probable cost of the bonus to the Federal Government at $3,845,659, 451 spread over a period of 43 years from next Jan. 1. This is approximately $250,000,000 less than the estimate under the House bill which was $4,098,719,350, payable over 20 years.

The Senate bill estimate was prepared by Treasury experts and is based on the theory that 75 per cent of the 4,458,199 veterans who would be eligible for compensation would elect the adjusted service certificate option, 22 1/2 per cent farm, home and land settlement aid, and 2 1/4 per cent vocational training aid. Should all of the veterans select the certificate plan the total cost would be $4,488,545,975.

Chairman McCumber's report said it was hoped that the reduction in governmental expenditures plus the payment of interest on the refunded foreign obligations would be sufficient to obviate the imposition of additional taxation.

View As to Tax Levy. "If it does become necessary to impose additional taxes," the report continued, "it is believed we can better determine the amount of the necessary levy and the methods of distributing such burdens for the future at a later date."

As to the refunded foreign obligations the hope was expressed that this soon would be obtained and "that it will be possible for the foreign governments to provide for the immediate payment of interest thereon, so that such interest can be used toward defraying the expenses authorized under this act."

Sensor McCumber explained that an attempt had been made to reduce to a minimum actual cash payments under the bill during the next three years, while the Treasury is engaged in refunding the nearly $7,000,000,000 of maturing Government obligations. The estimated cost of the bonus for those three years was $242,000,000.

After its presentation to the Senate the bonus bill went to the calendar where it will remain until there is an agreement to call it up. Senator McCumber and some other proponents desire early action, but several Republican leaders are opposed to sidetracking the tariff bill, as they expect the fight over the bonus to consume at least a month and perhaps six weeks.

Proposed Payment Plans. This measure differs somewhat from the House bill and very widely from the bonus bill that was reported to the Senate last year. As now drafted, the legislation would give each veteran the right to select any one of the following plans:

Adjusted service pay, but only if his adjusted service credit did not exceed $30.

Adjusted service certificate with bank and Government loan provisions.

Vocational training aid.

Farm and home aid.

Land settlement aid.

The estimated cost for each of these plans is $10,000,000 for the cash payments, $1,864,909,451 for the adjusted service certificates, $412,425,000 for farm, home and land settlement aid and $52,325,000 for vocational training. The expenses under vocational training and the cash bonus would end in 1925, under this estimate, and those for farm, home and land settlement aid in 1928. Expenses under the certificate plan would continue to 1954, with a total of $655,931,670 to 1943, when the certificates would begin to fall due.

Plan of Credits for Service. Explaining the bill, Chairman McCumber said in his report that the amount of the adjusted service credit would be at the rate of $1 a year for domestic service and $1.25 for foreign service, less the $60 bonus paid when the veterans were discharged from the service. In no event, however, could the total exceed $500 in the case of those who had only domestic service and $625 for those who had both domestic and foreign service. The adjusted service certificates, payable at the rate of 20 years from the date of issue or sooner upon death, would have a face value of 101 1/2 times the total amount of the adjusted service credit. Under the plan, the certificates would be authorized to loan to the veterans an amount equal to 50 per cent of the adjusted service rate with interest at 4 per cent compounded annually from the date of issue. After Jan. 1, 1926, the Government would make loans on the certificates in varying amounts, according to the time negotiated.

Chairman McCumber said in his report that the committee had recommended elimination of the reclamation provision of the House bill for three reasons:

"Any reclamation scheme will be exceedingly expensive and will, in the end necessitate the expenditure of millions of dollars; it will be many years before a veteran will be able to determine where he could secure any rights under such plan and where the projects will be located; and, in making an application for such aid the veteran would not know anything relative to the location, cost or advantage of the project."

As a land settlement provision in place of the reclamation, veterans would be given preference in making loans on any public or Indian lands open to entry. 20 years these lands they would be entitled to a sum equal to the adjusted service credit increased by 25 per cent.

GOVERNMENT AS EMPLOYER CRITICISED BY LABOR CHIEF

Workmen Feel Great Reckoning Toward President and Administration, He Asserts.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, June 8.—The Government as an employer was taken to task yesterday by James O'Connell, president of the Metal Trades department of the American Federation of Labor who in his report to the department's annual meeting complained of certain acts of officials including President Harding as hostile to labor.

The policy of the administration towards curtailing "red economy," he said, "has been used with such tremendous force against the employees of the Government as to make workmen feel great bitterness and resentment for the heavy hand that has been laid on them by the President and his administration."

The Government, O'Connell asserted, should be the model employer, but he added that efforts of labor officials "to maintain some sort of standard conditions of employment have been of limited success." The Government officials, he continued, "have been wholly unresponsive and in many instances pointedly antagonistic." Much proposed legislation disapproved by labor is pending in Congress, O'Connell also said.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted permission to the country's railroads to file tariffs in conformity with the general 10 per cent reduction of freight rates effective July 1, on three days' notice, instead of the 10 days' notice as provided in the original report.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight denunciations of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunder, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Reed and the Women.

EST we forget, we working women. While Senator Reed's attitude toward our interests is being defended by one woman assuming to represent our class, I quote a passage from "Revelations of a Woman Lobbyist," by Maud Younger, in which she describes an encounter with the Senator from Missouri, once upon a time, before women had the vote, and possibly before the suffrage lobby, of which Miss Younger was the head, came to be known as "the most powerful lobby in Washington."

"Mr. Reed sat at his mahogany desk—a large, rather good looking Senator, with gray hair. His record in our card index read: 'He is most reactionary, not to say antidivine.' So I was not surprised to hear him say slowly and solemnly:

"Women don't know anything about politics. Did you ever hear them talk together? Well, first they talk about fashions and children and housework and then, perhaps about churches, and then, perhaps—about theaters; and then, perhaps—at each perhaps, he gazed down at his finger tip where his ideas appeared to originate, looking up at me with each new point. 'And then, perhaps—about literature!' he ended triumphantly.

"Yes, and that is the way it ought to be," he added, satisfied.

"But don't you believe that voting might make women think?" At this suggestion he recoiled, then recovered and grew jocose.

"Do you think I want my wife working against my interests? That's just what she'd be doing—voting against me. Women can't understand politics."

"I began to tell him about California women voters, but he interrupted. 'Women wouldn't change things if they did vote. They'd all vote just like their husbands.'"

AN INDUSTRIAL WORKER.

Laundries and Others.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I like "Kum Klee" in yesterday's Post-Dispatch. I think it is high time that the laundry combine should be investigated and brought to its senses. During the war they took advantage of the opportunity to increase 100 per cent, which they have continued to maintain, notwithstanding every ingredient that they use, soap, chemicals, etc., to say nothing of labor, is costing them a great deal less. Besides charging 10 and 15 cents for laundering a shirt, they are shameless enough to charge 6 cents for laundering a 10-cent sock collar, which does not even require any starch. I am sure that the laundry public going to be compelled to stand for that sort of imposition?

Why Is the "138th"?

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: IN your issue of Sunday you publish a letter from one designated as an "Old 138th Man," and referring to the fact that the present National Guard regiment in St. Louis is called the 138th. The First Regiment of Infantry, National Guard of Missouri, has been, in its various organizations, an institution in St. Louis since 1808 and there is no reason why the designation 138th should be taken by the First Regiment for any other motive, and this is said with due consideration of the fact that the 138th Infantry covered itself with glory in France, no small part of this glory being due to the members of the First Infantry who were taken into the 138th in the organization of this latter unit. From the above it will be seen that the First Infantry has pride in its own organization and from the information of the "Old 138th Man," I will say that the designation of the 138th Infantry (First Regiment of Infantry, National Guard of Missouri) has been given to this organization by the Military Bureau in the present scheme of the organization of the armies of the United States. We of the First Infantry appreciate the honor added to our organization by our former comrades in arms of the First Infantry and of the Fifth Infantry, which together constituted the 138th in France.

One at a Time!

WE are very glad you are publishing all of each installment of the "Story of Manhood" on one sheet of paper. Such a plan will enable us to bind and preserve it. Spreading a story over several sheets is very annoying to the reader, as it is too bulky to handle or preserve for future reference.

After this story is finished we hope you will give us a complete course in Bible study, worked in attractive language, like this history. A complete knowledge of the Bible, history and Shakespeare is a good education and one that thousands would appreciate in attractive language, something of the style of "The Story of Manhood."

Wishing you success.

REED ON FOOD CONTROL.

Senator Reed is only getting deeper into a mess of evasion and misrepresentation by his attacks on the newspapers which have exposed his misstatements concerning food control for war purposes under the Wilson administration.

He accuses the newspapers which have denied the truth of his attacks on Hoover of "blundering and stupid falsehoods." Let us see against whom the charge lies.

The Senator denounced Hoover as Food Administrator for fixing the price of wheat and thus depriving the farmers of billions which they might have made in the open market controlled by war speculators.

He accuses Hoover of fixing the price of wheat and controlling the grain market and food prices for the benefit of Great Britain. Hoover, in other words, was the agent of Great Britain, put in the position of great power and responsibility as the head of the Food Administration by President Wilson. In order that Great Britain might profit at the expense of America, and particularly of the American farmer.

The Post-Dispatch printed the facts about food control, not merely to defend Hoover, whose record speaks for itself and who can defend himself, but to bring out the actual truth. In attacking Hoover and food control Senator Reed attacks the Wilson administration and its conduct of the war, an achievement unparalleled in human history. He practically charges the Wilson administration, in the nation's great war, of betraying America for the benefit of the British. In attacking food control he attacks one of the best achievements of the Wilson administration for the winning of the war.

What are the facts?

Mr. Hoover did not fix the price of wheat. The first price fixed, for the 1918 crops, was fixed by Congress. Subsequently it was fixed by a commission which President Wilson appointed under the power conferred upon him in the Lever act by Congress. One-half of the commission were farmers or representatives of farmer organizations. The congressional price was $2 a bushel; the commission's price was $2.20.

The record showed that Mr. Hoover had declined to fix the price, on the ground that as Food Administrator the price fixing ought not to be in his hands. Mr. Wilson publicly stated that Mr. Hoover had refused to have anything to do with price fixing. He did not fix the price.

If the farmers, as Senator Reed asserted, had made billions out of their grain without food and price control they would have made it out of the necessities of the American people and their war allies. Their profits would have been added to war costs and would have vastly increased the miseries of the war. Not only the British and American, but the French, the Italian and the Belgian peoples would have suffered terrible hardships. The British, French, Italian and Belgian peoples would probably have been starved into submission to Germany. Senator Reed's fight against food control and Hoover, as well as against Wilson, endeared him to German sympathizers.

The facts show that the farmers would not have profited by our open wheat market during the war and were protected by food control. When the uncontrolled price of wheat went to $2.25 a bushel the farmers got an average of $1.42 a bushel. Some got 80 cents. With the price fixed at over $2, a fair and profitable price. Through the Food Administration, after the armistice, the farmers were protected against a ruinous fall of price. The ruinous price came after price control ceased.

Since the facts have been published Senator Reed admits that a commission formally fixed the price, but that Hoover controlled the commission—a plain evasion of the truth. He quotes irrelevant alleged statements of Hoover which have nothing to do with the point at issue.

In view of the facts, we submit to the public the question, Who is guilty of "blundering and stupid falsehoods"? Who is guilty of attacking a splendid work of the Wilson administration in the successful conduct of the war to make an unjust charge and a sordid appeal to greed in order to win farmers' votes?

THE THIRD SMASH.

The smashing progressive victory in the Iowa senatorial primary to nominate a candidate for the seat vacated by former Senator Kenyon proclaims for the third time the squandered opportunity of the Harding administration. The majority of the people are always progressive and always have been. But they don't always have an opportunity to vote that way without the confusion of other issues, partisan alignments and candidates.

There was such a confusion in 1920. A reactionary was nominated at Chicago. But his record in national politics was sufficiently scant and obscure to be covered by the accumulated grievances against eight years of Democratic control, by the campaign of falsehood against the League of Nations, by the foreign vote and the general impatience for a change of leadership at Washington.

If Mr. Harding and, more particularly, the Senate leaders had acknowledged to themselves on taking the reins of government the never-failing progressive temper of the people when given an opportunity to express it, they could have won and held popular esteem. Instead, they did the superficial thing. They accepted their 7,000,000 majority as a carte blanche certificate of reaction. Now they are counting the returns; they are getting a taste of the true temper of the people. The blow from Iowa has landed on the same spot as the blows from Indiana and Pennsylvania. It is a third notice that the victory of 1920 was not a renewed lease of life to reactionary politics.

The most conspicuous fact of the Iowa primary was the repudiation of Newberryism. Senator Kenyon was the leader of the Republican insurrection in that battle for clean elections. It was his constituency that nominated Smith W. Brookhart by a vote of more than 2-1 to 1 over his nearest competitor. Newberryism was made one of the prominent issues of the campaign and the result was a handsome vindication of the Kenyon position.

Three signal defeats out of three for the administration ought to be notice enough that it was not the intention of the rank and file of the Republican party in 1920 to put reaction in the saddle. In face of this warning how can the administration proceed with reactionary tariff legislation that will fill the coffers of monopoly and leave the farmer, worker and consumer holding an empty sack?

Pleasant as he portrays the next world, we observe that when Conan Doyle wanted a change he came to America.

OUR GROWING OPERA.

Our municipal opera is an evolution which began with nothing but a park and a beautiful idea, but with each season approaches nearer the model performance. The triumph of the present season is the home-trained chorus. Being an amateur organization with professional training and the pick of three times as many applicants as were accepted, it is said to excel, with its freshness of voice, richness of figure and animation, any traveling aggregation that ever came to St. Louis.

The opera school and its product, the chorus, are an achievement which must be made permanent. It is proposed next to extend the scope of the school to the training of principals. If the results of that proposal are as glowing as those of the chorus school, the evolution of the local opera will have reached a mark in artistry beyond which there will not be far to go.

From point of attendance, at least, there has never been lacking appreciation of St. Louis' operatic effort. May the spirit of appreciation grow. What the performers and directors need now, above all, is encouragement. It would be a pity if this important factor should, in any degree, fall short. With due appreciation the performance is certain to grow better and better, and the effort and initiative expended for its success are sure to be rewarded. With its midsummer, sky-railed music-comedy, St. Louis is leading the way to finer things in American city life.

The twofold advantage of radio is that nobody can talk back to the speaker, but nobody has to listen to him.

One hopeful sign is in the fact that 300 Hawaiian orchestras are stranded in the country. The performers will have to force their skeletons into plowshares, or something.

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McDanns

ON a recent visit to St. Louis the novelist, Meredith Nicholson, told a story of the late William James. There was a dinner in Boston at which the guests were chiefly Mr. James and several Indiana writers who happened to be in the city. Among these latter was James Whitcomb Riley, considered by his Indiana contemporaries, and by most people for that, a somewhat unique figure in American letters. Mr. James, evidently either did not share this appreciation of the poet or else was not in the habit of expressing in any way what he felt about others. He seemed wholly occupied by what he thought about himself, perhaps, since he almost spoke to no one during the dinner and repelled a hundred desperate efforts to precipitate a conversation in which everyone at the table might join. It was a terrible ordeal for everyone—most of all, apparently, to Mr. James, the central figure. After the dinner, as the company passed out of the dining room, the Indiana people all depressed over the way in which Mr. Riley particularly had been treated as a person of no consequence whatever, someone asked Mr. James what he thought of a question the poet had asked, whereupon Mr. James gave his first and only intimation of being aware that the celebrated Hoosier singer was present by exclaiming absently, "O, Mr. Riley; was that Mr. Riley?" Needless to say, none of the Indiana people ever afterward sought a similar hilarious hour with Mr. James.

BOOKS FROM THE BLEACHERS.

WE HAVE sometimes been told that our remarks about contemporary politicians are too much tinged with vivacity, and that if we ourselves have no superstitious regard for these gentlemen, we ought to be more considerate of the sensibilities of those who have. Says the Freeman: "We are therefore much encouraged by receiving from a valued correspondent, whom we would thank if he had given us his post-office address, a copy of the market-letter put out by a firm of New York brokers—not stockholders, but brokers in commodities. This letter (we quote verbatim) says of the new tariff bill: 'It has been before Congress almost a year. Now the bill is reported to the Senate, and a number of old salts of clothes fall of Nothing will have to blast along for many days before it is passed by the votes of 58 Senators or more, not one-third of whom have any grasp of knowledge of the bill worth mentioning. It then goes to the other House, where many other blatherers must have their say; then the two Houses go to the Mat, and at the finish, the Tariff won't know itself on the Street.'

"Men and brethren, if we are any judge of a good, competent Seventeenth Century English prose style, we beg to say that the foregoing is in. For simplicity, directness, force, picturesque and accuracy, it is hard to beat. We wish George Borrow were alive to see and praise it. The letter proceeds: 'We dimly recollect some Slogan that one or the other party used in the Election of 1920, something about "Have Done with Wiggle and Wobble." But from what we noted in Washington this week, both Wiggle and Wobble are still fairly active. There was another good Slogan that year, "Boys, get the money!" Will Hays believed in this; he Got the Money, from the Picture People. When commodity-brokers talk like this, we think that editors are entitled to as large a "liberty of prophesying," and accordingly we are sharpening up all the quills in the office.

"During the Senate's first month with the tariff-bill, only 1 per cent of the 1920 paragraphs dealing with listed articles have come under consideration. This is an enviable news, and encourages one to hope that the impending economic calamity may thus be averted long enough to enable honest business men to earn a little money for the collectors of internal revenue. Meanwhile, the senatorial primaries are beginning, and most of the great lawmakers who are up for re-election are anxious to get back from Washington to reassure the home folk, who give evidence of being uncommonly restless this year. They would like an adjournment were it not for the fact that delay would bill beyond election day, and by that time the voters might be pretty well disgusted and ill-informed about the whole log-rolling process. It is an uncomfortable situation for the legislative brethren, and none the less so because, while they are so busily constructing their Chinese wall to bar out our foreign trade, that trade continues to sag pitifully. April figures show a falling off of $3,940,000 in exports and $33,060,000 in imports from March, and the 19 completed months of the current fiscal year mark a decline of nearly 100 per cent in exports and over 10 per cent in imports from the previous fiscal period. The pick-up in exchange rates mitigates this somewhat, but not enough to warrant any of our foreign traders in removing the craps from their doorsteps."

A CHARGE THAT FAILED.

THE speedy release of William Blizard by the West Virginia jury that heard the criminal trial for treason merits public approval. The evidence against Blizard's "treason" was slender, and his prosecutors were more anxious to win against the defendants. Blizard's "treason" was against the kind of lynch law favored by the flabby powerful coal operators. If the Governor of West Virginia had enlisted Blizard and his union mates to go into Logan County and fight out the gunmen, there would have been a stronger case against the kind of lynch law favored by the flabby powerful coal operators. If the Governor of West Virginia had enlisted Blizard and his union mates to go into Logan County and fight out the gunmen, there would have been a stronger case against the kind of lynch law favored by the flabby powerful coal operators.

If this was the object, it may have succeeded in West Virginia. But it has failed in the rest of the country, where the demand is growing for a new form of government in the common coal fields.

BRITISH RULE IN INDIA.

LOTHROP Stoddard in the June Century. MORE than a century Great Britain has ruled India. The British Raj is a unique government unique in the world's history. In the reforms of the last few years, when India have been given an increasing share in the administration, it was a Government by a few Indians, not a Government by the Indians. The British Raj is a unique government unique in the world's history. In the reforms of the last few years, when India have been given an increasing share in the administration, it was a Government by a few Indians, not a Government by the Indians. The British Raj is a unique government unique in the world's history. In the reforms of the last few years, when India have been given an increasing share in the administration, it was a Government by a few Indians, not a Government by the Indians.

The most ominous feature of the situation seems to be the tendency of the masses to look away from their own leaders and fall into the hands of the British authorities. It is against this trend that the British authorities are today pressing their most earnest measures. At the same time they are trying to rally the moderate elements in India to the cause of order and are endeavoring to win the Mohammedans by concessions to their religious and racial prejudices. The thing to be remembered is that India today faces the acutest crisis since the Mutiny. . . . The present situation involves every part of India, and is not a purely political, but economic and social as well. The truth of the matter is that India is today a battle-ground between the forces of evolution and revolutionary change. It is a struggle of the old order against the new order. The old order is obviously dying, and the new order is not yet fairly in evidence. The hour is big with possibilities of good and of construction and catastrophe.

Shartel pointed out that of 1921 the State for all p only $3,123,000 co property tax, or a than one-eighth of that the State's ex penditure of $17,000,000. He said that the State should search out, ent there is no Stat such power.

PLAN TO ELIMINATE DIRECT PROPERTY TAX IS DISCUSSED

Shartel Argues Before Committee That Proposal Would Give Home Rule on Taxation.

EFFORT IN BEHALF OF SECURED DEBTS TAX

Apparent Attempt to Make Levy on "Bonds and Other Evidence of Debt" Constitutional.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 8.—A plan for eliminating direct property taxes as sources of State revenue and providing that all of the funds to defray the expense of State Government up to $30,000,000 a year, be raised by indirect taxes, was discussed before the Taxation committee today by C. M. Shartel, president of the convention. This plan, previously discussed in the Post-Dispatch, is before the convention in the form of a proposal.

Shartel argued that adoption of this plan, which would leave assessment of property and the collection of direct property taxes altogether to local political subdivisions, with the exception noted, would give home rule in taxation and would terminate a controversy which has existed in Missouri for 75 years over assessments. In years when needs of the State would exceed $30,000,000 the Legislature would be allowed to levy a direct tax apportioned to the counties in proportion to the sums raised locally for county purposes.

Would Seek Out Income Tax Evaders.

The Shartel proposal would make the State Tax Commission a constitutional body and would clothe it with sole power to assess all income, county public utilities, providing, however, that it should certify to each county its share of the State-wide assessment on these various properties, to be followed by the State in levying its local taxes. He also would empower the Tax Commission to administer the income tax, at least to the extent that it should search out evaders. At present there is no State department with such power.

Shartel pointed out to the committee that of $26,000,000 raised by the State for all purposes last year, only $2,328,000 came from the direct property tax, or only slightly more than one-eighth of the total, and that the State's share of the expense of collecting this revenue was $300,000, which he regarded as too expensive proportionately.

Whether the chance is made, however, he urged, the creation and collection of useless inspection fees should be terminated, declaring that the expense of sending inspectors around over the State to ascertain "whether the bed sheets in hotels are long enough to cover the toes of traveling men" is a waste of money. He also suggested that the inspection department to which he referred was abolished by the Legislature.

Talk of a Recess. Delegates today are discussing a suggestion that after two or three more weeks the convention should take a recess until fall or even later, to allow popular digestion of the proposals and crystallization of opinion on them.

Division on the idea, however, many favoring concentration on the tax until it is completed. Decision on the matter probably will be obtained within a few days by introduction of a resolution.

Effort to Make Secured Debts Tax Constitutional.

What apparently is an effort to make constitutional the taxation of secured debts in Missouri, had its appearance in the constitutional convention here yesterday with introduction of a proposal by Alfred N. Gossett of Kansas City, which would authorize the Legislature to place "bonds, notes and other evidence of indebtedness" in special classes for taxation, exempting them from the general property tax.

After several bitter fights in the Legislature, laws doing the very thing were enacted, but were held unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court last summer in a sweeping decision. The Gossett proposal undoubtedly will provoke a hot fight, as large numbers of residents of the rural sections of the State are irrevocably opposed to the theory on which it is based. Its enactment would be sponsored in the Legislature by real estate men and others of allied interests in the larger cities.

Gossett's Proposal. Gossett's proposal in part is that "the laws may provide that bonds, notes and other evidence of indebtedness and either of the same may be a separate class or classes and for the payment of separate sums graduated, or not to be paid as tax charges thereon, in lieu of property taxes and levies on the same."

This means that instead of paying taxes just as other property owners do, the holders of securities could pay a stated sum fixed by statute without regard to current needs of the Government. The law knocked out by the Supreme Court provided for payment of $7.50 per $1000, which was for a five-year period, in lieu of all other State taxes, after which the security would be tax exempt.

RAIN STOPS IN TIME FOR OPERA

Considerable Attendance Gathers in Spite of Overcast Sky.

Yesterday's showers did not cease until 7 p. m. and it was an hour later before the overcast sky began to clear, but that did not prevent a considerable attendance from gathering at the Municipal Theater to witness the second performance of De Koven's comic opera, "The Highwayman."

The weather interfered no further. The audience was composed almost entirely of those who had purchased seats in advance, and there were but few sales at the ticket offices.

Funeral of Edward H. Coffin. The funeral of Edward H. Coffin, 75 years old, of 1529 Lafayette avenue, whose death Tuesday afternoon resulted from a stroke of apoplexy, will be held today from the home. Coffin was local agent for the Wash Railroad for 27 years. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Lela Coffin, and two children, W. H. Coffin and Mrs. Francis Gaskill. The body will be cremated.

RUSSIAN FAMINE CONDITIONS PICTURED AS AT MISERY PEAK

Speaker Tells Committee Meeting Here 5,390,000 Children Less Than 7 Face Starvation.

Russian famine conditions were depicted as at the height of misery at present to the members of the Executive Committee of the American Committee for Relief of Russian Children by Capt. Paxton Hibben, who recently returned from Russia, at the City Club yesterday afternoon.

"According to official figures 630,000 children under 1 year of age and 4,760,000 between the ages of 1 and 7 still are facing starvation in the worst affected famine areas," Capt. Hibben declared. "Our committee has just received a communication from the Russian Red Cross that it is a matter of urgency that relief work should not fail off before the end of August, or a very large number of those children who have been kept alive by American charity all winter will die, just at the end of the worst crisis."

"There are at least 8,000,000 people in the famine area of Russia today who receive no food whatever from any relief agency, Russian or foreign, and 11,000,000 who are being maintained by both public and private relief, but on starvation rations only. The last reports from Dr. Nansen say that 16,000,000 persons in the Ukraine—an area as large as Italy—are entirely without food, while between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 of these are in such deplorable condition that it is not likely they can last even until harvest. "The American Committee for Relief of Russian Children is only sending milk to Russia for babies. We hope to send 1,000,000 cans of condensed milk over at the end of this month, and we want some of it to come from St. Louis."

GEORGE DEVOY SETTLES CLAIM ON MOTHER'S ESTATE FOR $6000

Plan to Withdraw from Contest Disposed at Hearing on Preliminary Motion in Case.

George Devoy, one of the contestants in the suit to set aside the will of his mother, Mrs. Edward Devoy, widow of a coal dealer, has settled with the estate for $6000 and will withdraw from the contest. It was disclosed yesterday at a hearing in the Circuit Court on a preliminary motion in the case. The hearing was held by the judge to remove the guardian of Alice Devoy Heinrichs, a minor, it being charged he had joined hands with Mrs. Mary Estelle Cartwright to uphold the will. It also was disclosed at the hearing that before the will contest was filed a proposition to settle with Charles Devoy for $15,000 was agreeable to Mrs. Cartwright, but it fell through. He and his two brothers, George and Joseph, then filed proceedings to set aside the will.

Their sister, Mrs. Cartwright, is the principal beneficiary. The sons and granddaughter, Alice Heinrichs, an orphan, each were left $1. Mrs. Cartwright has adopted her niece. The plaintiffs say the estate is worth $200,000, while John P. Leahy, attorney for Mrs. Cartwright, says it is appraised at $120,000. The motion to remove the guardian, who was appointed to look after the minor's interests in the case, was taken under advisement by Judge Taylor.

She was taken to the City Hospital where it was found she had suffered a fractured right leg, a fractured thumb, and lacerations about the forehead. She said the motorist of the eastbound car failed to sound his gong. She was on her way home from night duty at the Postoffice when the accident occurred.

SUIT FOR POSSESSION OF CHILD

Efforts to secure possession of a 7-year-old girl, Evelyn Nobs of Troy, Ill., have resulted in complicated court proceedings. The child is at present with her grandfather, with whom she has resided since the death of her mother, June 27, 1913.

The father, Fred Nobs, has been attempting to secure possession of her, and went to Edwardsville yesterday and instituted a habeas corpus proceeding to recover her. Learning of his intention, the grandfather, Peter Aebel, beat him to the county seat and shortly before the habeas corpus action was filed presented a petition in the Circuit Court, asking that the little girl be declared a dependent child, alleging that the father does not provide a home for her.

The Story of Mankind by PROF. HENDRIK VAN LOON

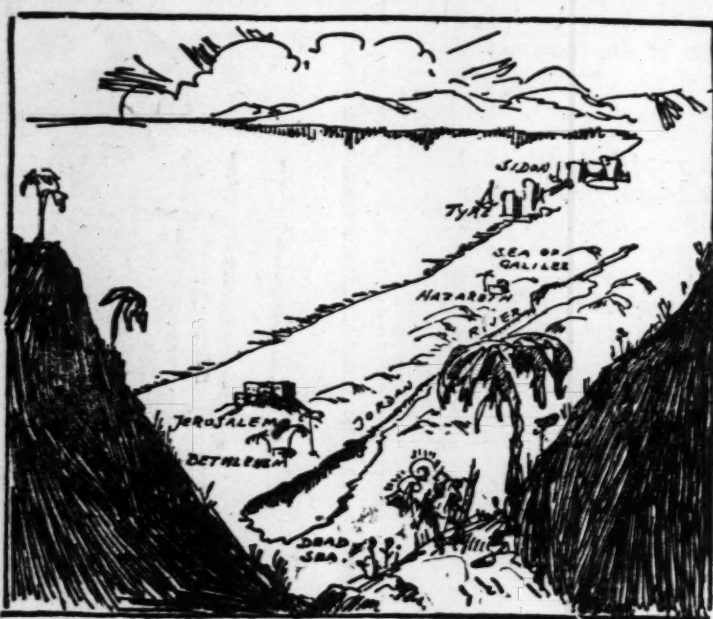

Publication of this absorbingly interesting story of the human race was begun Monday, May 29, in the Post-Dispatch. Back numbers can be had on application at the Post-Dispatch business office.

JOSHUA OF NAZARETH.
The Story of Joshua of Nazareth, Whom the Greeks Called Jesus. In the autumn of the year of the city 753 (which would be 62 A. D., in our way of counting time), Asclepius Cuitellus, a Roman physician, wrote to his nephew who was with the army in Syria as follows: My Dear Nephew:

A few days ago I was called in to prescribe for a sick man named Paul. He appeared to be a Roman citizen of Jewish parentage, well educated and of agreeable manners. I had been told that he was here in connection with a lawsuit, an appeal from one of our provincial courts, Caesarea or some such place in the eastern Mediterranean. He had been described to me as a "wild and violent" fellow who had been making speeches against the people and against the law. I found him very intelligent and of great honesty.

A friend of mine who used to be with the army in Asia Minor told me that he had seen something about him in Ephesus, where he was preaching sermons about a strange new God. I asked my patient if this were true and whether he had told the people to rebel against the will of our beloved Emperor. Paul answered that the kingdom of which he had spoken was not of this world and he added many strange utterances which I did not understand, but which were probably due to his fever.

His personality made a great impression upon me and was sorry to hear that he was killed on the Galilean road a few days ago. Therefore I am writing this letter to you. When next you visit Jerusalem, I want you to find out something about my friend Paul and the strange Jewish prophet who seems to have been his teacher. Our slaves are getting much excited about this so-called Messiah, and a few of emperor, was on the throne, and an officer of the name of Pontius Pilatus was governor of Judaea and Samaria. Joseph knew little about this Pilatus. He seemed to have been an honest enough official who left a decent reputation as procurator of the province. In the year 755 or 756 (Joseph had forgotten when) Pilatus was called to Jerusalem on account of a riot. A certain young man (the son of a carpenter of Nazareth) was said to be planning a revolution against the Roman government. Strangely enough our own intelligence officers, who are usually well informed, appear to have heard nothing about it, and when they investigated the matter they reported that the carpenter was an excellent citizen and that there was no reason to fear him. But the old-fashioned leaders of the Jewish faith, according to Joseph, were much upset. They greatly disliked his popularity with the masses of the Hebrews. The "Nazarene" (so they told Pilatus) had publicly claimed that a Greek or a Roman or even teachings of the Nazarene." Petitions were being circulated all through the city to have Pilatus recalled, because he was an enemy of the Emperor. You know that our governors have strict instructions to avoid an open break with their foreign subjects. To save the country from civil war, Pilatus finally sacrificed his prisoner, Joshua, who behaved with great dignity and who forgave all those who hated him. He was crucified amidst the howls and the laughter of the Jerusalem mob.

That is what Joseph told me, with tears running down his old cheeks. I gave him a gold piece when I left him, but he refused it and asked me to hand it to one poorer than himself. I also asked him a few questions about your friend Paul. He had known him slightly. He seems to have been a tent maker who gave up his profession that he might preach the words of a loving and forgiving God, who was so very different from the Jehovah of whom the Jewish priests are telling us all the time. Afterwards, Paul appears to have traveled much in Asia Minor and in Greece, telling the slaves that they were all children of one loving Father and that happiness awaits all, both rich and poor, who have tried to live honest lives and have done good to those who were suffering and miserable.

I hope that I have answered your questions to your satisfaction. The whole story seems very harmless to me as far as the safety of the state is concerned. But then, we Romans never have been able to understand the people of this province. I am sorry that they have killed your friend Paul. I wish that I were at home again, and I am, as ever, Your dutiful nephew, GLADIUS ENSA.

them, who openly talked of the new kingdom (whatever that means) have been crucified. I wish you would know the truth about all these rumors and I am, Your devoted uncle, ASCLEPIUS CUITELLUS.

Six weeks later, Gladius Ensa, the nephew, a Captain of the VII Gallic Infantry, answered as follows: My Dear Uncle:

I received your letter and I have obeyed your instructions. There have been several revolutions during the last century and there is not much left of the old city. We have been here now for a month and tomorrow we shall continue our march to Petra, where there has been trouble with some of the Arab tribes. I shall use this evening to answer your questions, but pray do not expect a detailed report.

I have talked with most of the men in this city but few have been able to give me any definite information. A few days ago a peddler came to the camp. I bought some of his olives and asked him whether he had ever heard of the famous Messiah who was killed when he was young. He said that he remembered it very clearly, because his father had taken him to Golgotha (a hill just outside the city) to see the execution, and to show him what became of the enemies of the laws of the people of Judaea. He gave me the address of one Joseph, who had been a personal friend of the Messiah and told me that I had better go and see him if I wanted to know more.

This morning I went to call on Joseph. He was quite an old man. He had been a fisherman on one of the fresh-water lakes. His memory was clear, and from him at last I got a fairly definite account of what had happened during the troublesome days before I was born. He said that the Messiah, a great and glorious in the affairs of this world which had proved such a miserable place of abode. They were willing to fight the good fight that they might enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. But they were not willing to engage in warfare for the benefit of an ambitious emperor who aspired to glory by way of a foreign campaign in the land of the Parthians or the Numidians or the Scots.

And so conditions grew worse as the centuries went by. The first Emperors had continued the tradition of "leadership" which had given the old tribal chieftains such a hold upon their subjects. But the Emperors of the second and third centuries were Barrack-Emperors, professional soldiers, who existed by the grace of their body-guards, the so-called Praetorians. They succeeded each other with terrifying rapidity, murdering their way into the palace and being murdered out of it as soon as their successors had become a new rebellion.

Meanwhile the barbarians were hammering at the gates of the northern frontier. As there were no longer any native Roman armies to stop their progress, foreign mercenaries had to be hired to fight the invader. As the foreign soldier happened to be of the same blood as his supposed enemy, he was apt to be quite lenient when he engaged in battle. Finally, by way of experiment, a few tribes were allowed to settle within the confines of the Empire. Others followed. Soon these tribes complained bitterly of the greedy Roman taxgatherers, who took away their last penny. When they got no redress they marched to Rome and loudly demanded that they be heard.

This made Rome very uncomfortable as an imperial residence. Constantine (who ruled from 323 to 337) looked for a new capital. He chose Byzantium, the gate-way for the commerce between Europe and Asia. The city was renamed Constantinople, and the court moved eastward. When Constantine died, his two sons, for the sake of a more efficient administration, divided the Empire between them. The elder lived in Rome and ruled in the west. The younger stayed in Constantinople and was master of the east.

Then came the fourth century and the terrible visitation of the Huns, those mysterious Asiatic horsemasters who for more than two centuries maintained themselves in Northern Europe and continued their career of bloodshed until they were defeated near Chalons-sur-Marne in France in the year 451. As soon as the Huns had reached the Danube they had begun to press hard upon the Goths. The Goths, in order to save themselves, were thereupon obliged to invade Rome. The Emperor Valens tried to stop them, but was killed near Adrianople in the year 378. Twenty-two years later, under their king, Alaric, these same West Goths marched westward and attacked Rome. They did not plunder, and destroyed only a few palaces. Next came the Vandals, and showed less respect for the venerable traditions of the city. Then the Burgundians. Then the East Goths. Then the Alemanni. Then the Franks. There was no end to the invasions. Rome at last was at the mercy of every ambitious highway robber who could gather a few followers.

In the year 403 the Emperor fled to Ravenna, which was a sea-port and strongly fortified, and there, in the year 475, Odacer, commander of a regiment of the German mercenaries, who wanted the farms of Italy to be divided among themselves, greatly but effectively pushed Romulus Augustulus, the last of the emperors who ruled the western division, from his throne, and proclaimed himself Patriarch or ruler of Rome. The eastern Emperor, who was very busy with his own affairs, recognized him, and for ten years Odacer ruled what was left of the western provinces. A few years later, Theodoric, King of the East Goths, invaded the newly formed Patriarchate, took Ravenna, murdered Odacer at his own dinner table, and established a Gothic kingdom amidst the ruins of the western part of the empire. This Patriarchate state did not last long. In the sixth century a motley crowd of Lombards and Saxons and Slavs and Avars invaded Italy, destroyed the Gothic kingdom and established a new state of which Pavia became the capital.

JUDGE FARIS FINES TWO MEN
$500 EACH UNDER DRY LAW

Grocer and Saloonkeeper Are Ordered Held in Custody Until Fines Are Paid.

Vito Castelli, of 4551 Laclede avenue, a grocer, and Frank Malon, a saloonkeeper at 314 O'Fallon street, were each fined $500 by Federal Judge Faris yesterday after they were found guilty by a jury of violating the Volstead act. Each was ordered held in custody until fines are paid.

Castelli, in whose car Federal officers found a five-gallon can of moonshine whisky on Feb. 18, maintained the whisky was put there by his enemies. He is the father of Vincent Castelli, 5 years old, who was kidnapped last November.

Malon was arrested when a bottle containing a small amount of whisky was found in his soft-drink parlor. Two negroes, sentenced on charges of illegal possession and sale of narcotics, Carl Spikes, to two years, and Anderson Fielder, to four years in the penitentiary, John Stewart, 41 years old, of 2721 Olive street, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on his plea of guilty of selling narcotics.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOWDruggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and luster, when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays, we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance.

STOPPED-UP PLUMBING

A Simple Method Every Housewife Should Know—Makes Pipes Run Freely—Saves Plumbers' Bills.

Here is a household hint that will save much plumbing trouble. When the kitchen sink, sewer drains, refrigerator drain, water closets or waste pipes show signs of clogging, dissolve two or three tablespoonfuls of Electric Powdered Lye in a little water and pour directly down the opening. Use POWDERED Lye, not solid. Use only enough water to thoroughly dissolve the lye. Repeat the process if necessary. Clogged pipes will usually open quickly and should then be flushed thoroughly with hot water. The wise way is to pour the lye solution down all drains.

A black and white illustration of a domestic scene. A man with a mustache is seated in a large, patterned armchair, leaning back. A woman stands behind him, her hands on her hips, looking towards the left. To the left of the woman, a young boy stands holding a baseball bat over his shoulder. He is wearing a striped shirt and shorts. A large clock with the letters 'US' is mounted on the wall behind the man. The scene is set in a room with a lamp and a plant visible in the background.

RECORD GRADUATING CLASS AT WASHINGTON

370 Degrees Conferred and 18
Diplomas Awarded Graduate Nurses Today.

The sixty-first commencement at Washington University today was signalled by the largest number of graduates on a single occasion in the history of that institution, the degrees conferred numbering 370. Eighteen diplomas were awarded to graduate nurses. Last year 289 degrees were conferred.

Exercises were held in Francis Gymnasium, on the west end of the campus, and the spacious auditorium was crowded. Admission was limited to those holding invitations, because of limited accommodations.

Members of the academic procession, including President Robert S. Brookings and directors of the corporation, Chancellor Frederick A. Hall, Dr. Donald John Cowling, president of Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., speaker of the occasion; faculty members and graduates marched from Graham Memorial Chapel to the gymnasium, under direction of Prof. E. O. Sweetser, marshal.

Musical by an orchestra, the opening feature, was followed by the address. The invocation was offered by the Rev. Marvin T. Haw, presiding elder at St. Louis of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Dr. Cowling's address followed. Degrees were conferred by Chancellor Hall, and Dr. Haw pronounced the benediction, which, except for the recessional by the orchestra, ended the program.

Changes in School Standards. Dr. Cowling, in his address, spoke of changes in educational standards which have followed the increase in the number of college students, this increase having been at more than twice the ratio of the increase of population. He praised the methods of the older colleges, which selected a few subjects for their value in training men, rather than for the knowledge derived.

The whole course was simple, compact, effective," he said. "What it lacked in breadth it more than made up in intensity, and as an instrument of intellectual and moral training it has never been excelled. I do not advocate a return to the rigid course of the older colleges, but I do believe the ideals they cherished are fundamental ideals."

YOUTH GETS TWO YEARS FOR CARRYING LOADED REVOLVER

Frank Shadow, 18 years old, was sentenced to two years in the State Reformatory at Booneville yesterday on his plea of guilty of carrying a loaded revolver. Maurice Pearson, 23, who pleaded guilty of robbery, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Shadow and Pearson were arrested following the holdup of Daniel Coughlin, 2244 A Benton street, at Grand boulevard and Herbst street April 8, in which $228.41 was taken. In addition to the robbery charge against Pearson and the concealed weapon charge against Shadow, both were charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of the automobile used in the robbery.

Pearson assumed full responsibility for the robbery, saying that Shadow had no part in it, except to drive the automobile. The charge of grand larceny against both was continued generally.

We Recommend the Tires That Have Won Every Important Racing Classic for Two Years

ONE of the reasons why you can be sure of Oldfield reliability under all conditions is their performance on the speedways during 1920 and 1921.

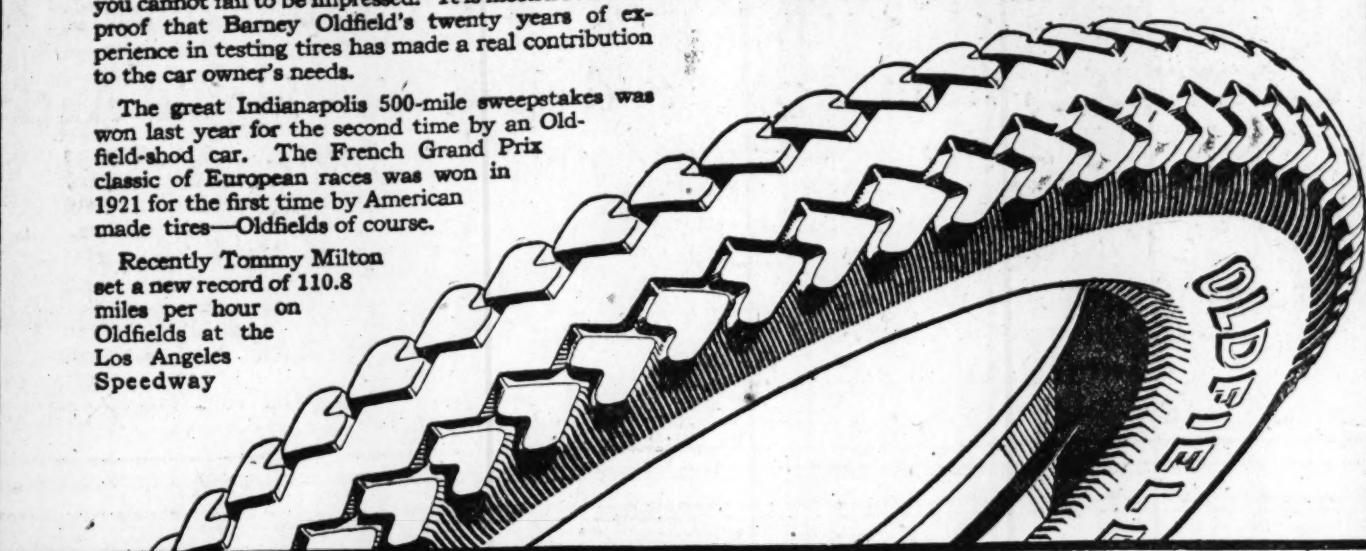

When you consider that every important racing classic in that time has been won on Oldfield Cords you cannot fail to be impressed. It is incontrovertible proof that Barney Oldfield's twenty years of experience in testing tires has made a real contribution to the car owner's needs.

The great Indianapolis 500-mile sweepstakes was won last year for the second time by an Oldfield-shod car. The French Grand Prix classic of European races was won in 1921 for the first time by American made tires—Oldfields of course.

Recently Tommy Milton set a new record of 110.8 miles per hour on Oldfields at the Los Angeles Speedway when he paced first in the 250-mile championship.

Such facts are doubly important to you when you appreciate that these same trustworthy tires carrying our own and the maker's backing can be bought at the lowest prices on record. It is easy to see why so many car owners hereabout are standardizing on Oldfield's for this year.

BEATING OF PREACHER BEING INVESTIGATED

Punishment Meted on Lonely Road Following His Marrying Couple in Bathing Suits.

By the Associated Press.
LAWTON, Ok., June 8.—A court of inquiry to investigate numerous outrages which the Rev. Thomas J.
Irwin, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, claims he has suffered at the hands of his enemies in the church, was convened here yesterday by the County Attorney. Several witnesses were examined although authorities declined to give their names or the nature of the questions asked them.

The investigation was ordered by the County Attorney following reports to the effect that the minister had been beaten by two men on a country road near here Monday night after he had refused to sign a confession that he had originated several fires that damaged the church. A previous inquiry into alleged incendiary fires at the church resulted in the filing of arson charges against Irwin and H. C. Lewis, an elder. Their preliminary hearing is set for today.

Pastor in Seclusion.
Irwin remained in seclusion today, suffering, his attorney said, from bruises on the back inflicted by his assailants. He has not made a statement to authorities regarding the affair, but his attorney says he recognized the voices of the men.
There was no indication today as to whether the County Attorney would summon the minister to testify at the inquiry.

The former pastor who resigned from the pulpit after charges of conduct unbecoming a minister were brought against him by the government presbytery, once before reported to county authorities that he had been kidnaped by three men and left bound and gagged in a ditch several miles from the town. He blamed his enemies, saying he had been continually persecuted since he resigned to drive him from the city.

Called It "Frame-Up."
After an investigation, however, the County Attorney announced that the abduction was a "frame-up."

The church has been in a bitter controversy since the congregation disagreed over Irwin's action in preaching the funeral sermon for Jake L. Hamon, former politician.
The climax was reached when the minister performed a marriage ceremony for a couple attired in bathing suits at a summer resort near here.

If your recipe calls for for the egg omitted use one-half a tablespoonful of wheat flour.

For lighter, flakier biscuits, pie one-fourth cup of Kingsford's and three-

AVES 1:
OSTON
SINGLESMany Title Bouts
Will Be Held in Open-Air Arenas

Three Are Practically Certain and as Many More Will Be Closed Shortly.

(Copyright, 1922, New York Herald.)
NEW YORK, June 8.—If plans formulated by Tex Rickard and his associates in the Garden Sporting Club do not go amiss patrons of boxing in this vicinity will witness five or six championship bouts in the open air before snow flies again. The contests that have been clinched and those in the making are as follows:

Jack Britton, world's welter champion, vs. Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, at 147 pounds, 1 p. m., June 23, at Boyle's Thirty Acres or New York Velodrome.

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, vs. Lew Tendler of Philadelphia, 135 pounds, 2 p. m., for the lightweight championship, July 20, at Boyle's Thirty Acres or New York Velodrome.

Johnny Buff, world's bantam champion, vs. Joe Lynch, former titleholder, Lynch is to guarantee $30,000, which amount is now held by the Garden management.

Lynch also has a formal challenge and a forfeit in the hands of the Boxing Commission. The match is likely to be clinched next week, and will be staged at Boyle's Thirty Acres or the Velodrome.

Kilbane to Box Dundee.

Johnny Kilbane, American featherweight champion, vs. Johnny Dundee, for the title of the class. Charley Beecher and Pepper Martin are trying to get the match with Kilbane, but Dundee was first to post a forfeit and formal challenge with the Boxing Commission. The commission has notified Kilbane that he must defend his title or lose his license to box in this state. This would mean that the Cleveland could not box in New Jersey, Massachusetts or Canada with which New York has a working agreement. The fact that Kilbane arrived in the East shortly after the receipt of the New York Commission edict would seem to indicate that he had decided to comply with the order. Negotiations are under way.

Carpenter Unresponsive.

Harry Greb, American light-heavyweight champion, vs. Georges Carpentier, world's light-heavyweight champion. Rickard has offered Carpentier $100,000 to defend his title against the attack of Greb. Carpentier has not as yet replied to the offer but it is predicted that he will do so shortly and that he and Greb will meet here next September. Greb is eager for the match and will sign at the drop of the hat.

Frank Flounroy said yesterday that the Montreal proposition is still open for Dempsey and that the date would be put back in order to give the champion plenty of time in which to train. The original date selected was July 1, Dominion Day, and Dempsey said this would curtail his training time.

Has an Open-Air Bout at Night.
Taken altogether, these promises to be a lively time in open-air boxing in this vicinity. The only question to be settled is that of night fights in the open. The Boxing Commission had practically decided against the issuance of licenses for night contests at open-air arenas. Ebbets Field has staged two daylight boxing entertainments at financial loss, and has applied to the commission for permission to hold bouts at night.

SCOTCH GOLFER WARNS AGAINST COMMON FAULT
Here is a bit of advice from Andra Kirkaldy, the veteran professional, at St. Andrews: "Let me say nothing is worse for anybody's golf than to slavishly copy the styles of all the better players one sees or hears about. A man must believe in himself as much as possible, making the most of his own natural style. Hardly two first-class golfers play alike."

Take Vardon, Taylor, Braid and Hurd. Could any four men get the same grand results by such different methods? Here is a new commandment for you: "Keep your mind's eye on the ball."

Tom Blair, the only other American, was eliminated in the first round.

May Be Next U. S. Champion

MISS GLENN COLLETT.

Who eliminated Miss Cecil Lettich in the U. S. championship is playing in better form than ever, this season. She already has annexed one title, the North and South Championship and will be one of the Big Three in this year's tourney. Her rivals will be Miss Alex Stirling and Miss Marian Hollins.

By the Associated Press.
GLENEAGLES, Scotland, June 8.—

Jack Hutchison, only American competitor to survive qualifying play in the 1000-guinea golf tournament here, was eliminated today by A. G. Havers of England, 1 up.

Hutchison holds the British open champion which he will defend in the coming tournament at Sandwich.

The qualifying rounds were completed yesterday afternoon, and 32 players were entitled to participate in the tournament which begins today.

Joe Kirkwood, the Australian open champion, turned in the best aggregate score, a 144, with George Duncan in second place, with 145.

They were followed by J. H. Taylor, with 148, Fred Leach, with 149, and Jack Hutchison, holder of the British open title, well up in the list, with a card of 152.

Joe Kirkwood, the Australian open champion, was eliminated in the second round by Compton, who defeated Harry Vardon in the first round.

Compton won from Kirkwood, 2 and 1. He beat Vardon, 1 up.

In the second round, J. Anderson of Perth, defeated Havers, 1 up; Abe Mitchell defeated George Duncan, 1 up.

Wray's Column

The Sky's the Limit.

IN the winter of 1904-5 James A. Hart and his associates sold the Chicago National League franchise and players to Charles A. Murphy and Charles P. Taft for $105,000. Seventeen years later the Chicago White Sox give $115,000 worth of cash and players for a third baseman, Willie Kamm, an unproved minor league performer.

The team that Murphy bought won three successive pennants, beginning in 1906, and was composed of some of the greatest stars in the game; Kamm, who cost $20,000 more than the entire Cub team and franchise, has a batting average for the past four seasons of .254.

In 1902 the Browns began their major league existence with a capitalization of $60,000, out of which they financed a team and built a grand stand. Today 10 times $60,000 wouldn't buy much more than a half interest in the club.

In less than a score of years the game has outgrown Arabian Nights tales; and the sum now required to finance one New York club would have bought both major leagues, lock, stock and barrel, 25 years ago.

The end is in sight, however.

For with the limit on admission charges about reached, the limit on receipts will automatically choke off increases in overhead.

Let 'em Race.

THE bought-and-paid-for teams have been through their annual panning. Still they go on winning or losing up there at the top of each major league heap, exactly where every big league club owner secretly hopes they will stay for at least three-fourths of the season.

This is not because of any innate love of McGrawism. Ruppberg, for a ball in the divine right of the full pocketbook; but because most clubs must first look out for the main chance themselves.

The enormous overhead, and the occasional necessity of competing with the Giants and Yanks in the open market, demand a large bank account; and the same is greatly furthered when the Yanks and Giants are leading the procession.

At home the New Yorkers draw enormous crowds, at an average price of over one buck per fan; and on the road the local fans turn out to see the champions and plutocrats overthrown.

Put New York at the tail-end

Just One Case.

AFTER one four-game series this spring at New York the Browns took away $37,000 net cash, or more money than Robert Lee Hedges had invested in the team when these same Browns were brought into existence, in 1902.

The Yanks are due in St. Louis for a series. As early as Tuesday every reserved seat for Saturday and Sunday had been sold out, according to report.

If the Yanks had not paid $125,000 for Babe Ruth and half a million for six or eight of the stars they own, they would not be champions and therefore not at the top of the league. They might be at the bottom. Would the reserve seats then be sold out in advance?

Not on your granddad's dagger-recycle!

So, despite all the howl about the oligarchy of cash in the baseball world, it's just what most baseball promoters believe is the best thing for the game.

A Knockout for Georges.

YVES MIRANDE, who wrote "Peg O' My Heart," is writing a romance of the ring in which Georges Carpentier is to star, in France. Mirande says Georges is sure to be a stage success, as his voice is agreeable and he is "too intelligent to undertake something he can't do."

Georges' acumen must have been enjoying a day off when he undertook to knock out Jack Dempsey.

Seeded Draw Is Causing Trouble

Players Protest Against Present System of Allotment of Byes.

Some of the lawn tennis officials are more than willing that the rule for "seeding the draw" for tournaments be rewritten at the earliest possible moment.

The belief is still held that the rule is right. The trouble with it appears to be what was called to the attention of followers of the game a short time ago, that it is not sufficiently direct and clear.

Now here is where the pinch comes, as has been shown in the early tournaments. The first drawn player is placed at the top of the list. The second at the top of the lower half. It seldom happens that there is a straight draw and the result is that the first drawn gets a bye, while the second drawn gets stuck for the extra round—and he does not like it and is saying so.

Jones W. Merseman of the University Heights Club has made the excellent suggestion that the reworking of the rule provide for working toward the center of the draw. If the first drawn is placed on the top bracket the second drawn goes to the last bracket. As byes are placed at the top and bottom of the list, these players will be upon equal terms.

The same rule applies for the other seeded competitors. The odd numbered man is placed at the top of his respective section in the top half, the even numbered man drawn is placed at the bottom of his respective division in the lower half.

How to Select the GIRL MAN You Should Marry

First of a Series of Three Articles by Betty Vincent

"Love at First Sight" Often Results in a Happy Marriage, but Most Often When Acquaintance Has Been Given a Time Test—Least Often When Marriage Has Been Rushed Into Recklessly Under the Spur of Infatuation.

By BETTY VINCENT.
HOW can a young man or a young woman know when they have met the proper person, the "right girl" or the "right man," to wed?

That is a question which puzzles many a young man and woman. It is not so difficult for the mature man of 30 or woman of 25 to "size people up" to judge character and to appreciate the different qualities and characteristics which they feel would blend well with theirs. But to young people still in their teens or early twenties this matter of picking your proper mate and realizing when you meet the "right one" is no simple task.

Young people have so much in common. They love to dance together, to hike, to skate, to row, to swim; they enjoy the same sentimental poetry, read the same things and frequently think the same line of thought because they were educated in the same public schools. But because young couples tend to well together, because they have read Blaise Cendrars' poetry, love to hike or are "just crazy" about liver and bacon is no reason they would be happy together through the long span of years.

How, then, is youth to know when the right girl and the right man appear?

This is the time of year when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love; yea, and a young girl, too! Vacation time is coming and many new acquaintances will be made. How, then, oh, how, is youth to know when Miss Right or Mr. Right appear?

Alas, there are no set rules. Whether blondes are happier together, brunettes should marry, blue-eyed and brown-eyed people avoid each other, tall men marry short girls, or vice versa; nobody, not even our most learned psychologists, could honestly tell.

Character analysts may tell us "How to succeed in business," but I wonder if they can tell us "How to pick a mate" as well as our own hearts and good common sense?

If we were to classify love and the way most young people select a mate we might group it this way:

1. Love at first sight.
2. Through matchmakers and other people's praises.
3. Through one's own appreciation and careful observation.

Personally, I have great faith in "love at first sight." I believe a great many young people naturally love each other from the moment they are introduced, meet at a dance, a party, some social affair or even through business relations. Youth is quick and keen and able to comprehend situations. To know what it "likes" at a glance. Sometimes it is true, youth is too impetuous, but it is also true that some young people possess an apparent "live wire" instinct to understand and to love at first sight. Just because there is a spark, a dash of something which appeals to them.

But while it is quite natural for youth to fall in love at first sight it is well not to marry with such rapidity. Be certain of these "first" impressions, take plenty of time to prove that your love will endure.

Among the young couples whom I know who fell in love at first sight and are happily married, over a year's courtship took place before marriage. And in almost every case of unhappiness through love at first sight marriage, a hasty courtship can be traced to the cause of their infelicities. They "thought" they loved. Be certain that you know you love before you trust your first impression.

The real old-fashioned matchmaker is a thing of the past, but there are still a number of people in the world who are constantly making introductions between young people with an eye toward Cupid. While most of these people mean well, impressionable youth is apt to be persuaded to take a step which may not be the best matrimonial venture. Because brother or father or some well meaning matron announces that Billy or Jack is a "very eligible young man with a promising future," many a young girl is impressed. And because Billy or Jack is told that Tessie or Tillie can make a cherry pie as well as a she can punch the typewriter keys many a heart starts to beating which naturally would have gone along quite regularly until the right girl came along.

While it is well to listen to other people's praises of young men and women, that is not enough foundation to start the matrimonial craft down the long winding stream of matrimony. Listen to the praises, but do your own thinking. Don't marry Billy or Jack because some wiseacre predicts he is going to succeed and make a barrel of money. Marry because you like him yourself, and then if he doesn't live up to the other people's opinions you won't care.

And, boys, don't fall for Tessie or Tillie because somebody says she makes a corking cherry pie or is an old-fashioned as your grandmother even if she has bobbed hair and wears skirts to her knees. Marry her because you love her, and then if she burns the toast and doesn't know how to boil an egg it won't make any difference. You can buy her a standard cook book.

Selecting a proper mate through one's own appreciation and careful observations is probably the safest rule in the world to follow for a thoroughly happy marriage. Study the young man or young woman in his or her home life. Meet their father and mother; see how Billy treats his small brother and how Tessie treats her small sister. Notice how forgiving or nonforgiving he or she is when a date is broken or when things do not run smoothly.

Picking your proper mate is really a matter of common sense. Billy may dance the latest steps and Tessie may have dreamy eyes and a rosy mouth, but try each other out, delve into each other's characters and take note of the little things which happen along the courtship path.

Love at first sight? Of course there is such a thing, but do not marry at first sight.

Other people's praise? Yes, indeed, listen to all they say about Billy and Tessie, but keep your own eyes open.

After all, what you think about him or her is what counts and therefore it is up to you to make your own careful observations.

Making Her Look Her Best

By DORIS DOSCHER.

YOU know skin is naturally applying lotions and powders to the face to cover up pimples and other skin eruptions, but unless you get at the cause of the trouble and cure your efforts will be entirely fruitless in clearing up your complexion. The effect of the most beautiful features and classical profile can be entirely lost if the skin is covered with pimples. But, on the other hand, the homeliest girl is bound to be somewhat attractive if her skin is clear of all facial blemishes and reflects a natural healthy glow.

The trouble with so many of you is that you lose sight of the relation between the body and the face. There are only a few isolated cases where pimples are an infection of the skin. In all other cases they are simply nature's way of trying to get rid of the impurities in the blood or freeing a clogged digestive system. You will never lose pimples and blemishes until you come to realize this great truth.

When we discussed blackheads we "referred" the external treatment, but in curing pimples the main cure depends upon the attention to the general health.

Just prove for yourself if what I say is not true, and if you are troubled with pimples breaking out on your face, change your diet and see how quickly your skin will clear up. If, instead of excessive tea and coffee drinking, you drink a cup of hot water, and in place of pie, cake, candy and other rich pastry you eat fruits, which contain sufficient natural sugar to gratify the craving for sweets, you will go a long way toward curing your affliction. Cut out of your diet so much meat and greasy gravy and satisfy your hunger with vegetables principally. Milk and eggs contain the most essential elements of food, and these you may have plentifully. They are easily digested and at this season of the year easily procured and inexpensive.

Excessive nervousness often causes eruptions to break out on the face. This is because you eat when you are too tired or you are mentally upset, and you get very little good from the food you eat, as the body is unable to take care of it and assimilate it. At such times it is far wiser for you to eat one-half the quantity, and that slowly and well chewed, than to load the stomach when it is impossible for it to do its work properly. But how can anyone be nervous at this gorgeous season of the year? Never mind what your work or how pressing the tasks that surround you, the season itself is sufficient inspiration to calm jagged nerves and give a real feeling to a body that may be tired from the winter's tasks.

Perhaps you see no relation between a long brisk walk in the sunshine, drinking copiously of water and sufficient rest, and pimples. But I can assure you that these simple rules of living are the quickest possible way of clearing the skin of pimples.

You are perfectly justified in trying to cover up facial blemishes for the time being. But take my advice. Change your rules of living so that the body has a chance to function properly and you will need to have no fear about pimples and the complexion.

Refrain from all alkali soap or other irritants on the face until it is healed. If you apply the following treatment to the pimples at night it has a soothing and healing effect:

Lanolin..... 1 ounce
Sweet almond oil..... 1 ounce
Precipitated sulphur..... 1 ounce
Oxide of zinc..... 15 drops

If you will follow the instructions for the general health, they will soon disappear and your skin will reflect your improved health.

Sometimes the offending pimples do not only the face, but other portions of the body, the favorite spot being on the back. Here, as in the face, they disappear with attention to the general health. If they are not fostered they may be scrubbed vigorously with a complexion brush and a mild soap. This bath may be allowed to remain on for a minute or two and then a warm shower, followed by a cold, stimulates the circulation and helps to clear them up.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Making Over an Old House

By Thornton W. Burgess

A house is changed when you make it. With love there you will see or foresee it.

—Whitfoot the Wood Mouse

WHITEFOOT the Wood Mouse climbed up to the old nest of Melody the Wood Thrush, over the edge of which little Mrs. Whitfoot was looking down at him. It took Whitfoot hardly a moment to get up there, for the old nest was only a few feet above the ground, in a young tree, and you know Whitfoot is a very good climber.

He found Mrs. Whitfoot very much excited. She was delighted with that old nest and she showed it. For his part, Whitfoot couldn't see anything in that old home of Melody's but a deserted old house, of no use to anyone. To be sure it had been a very good house in its time. It had been made of tiny twigs, stalks of old weeds, leaves, fern roots and mud. It was still quite solid and was firmly fast in a crotch of the young tree. But Whitfoot couldn't see how it could be turned into a home for a mouse. He said as much.

Little Mrs. Whitfoot became more excited than ever. "You dear old stupid," said she, "whatever is the matter with you? Don't you see that all we need to do is to put a roof on, make an entrance on the under side and make a soft, comfortable bed inside to make it a delightful home?"

"I don't see why we don't make a new home altogether," protested Whitfoot. "It seems to me that to put a roof on, make an entrance on the under side and make a soft, comfortable bed inside to make it a delightful home" is a fine, high roof. Down through the lower side she cut a little round doorway just big enough for them to pass through. Unless you happened to be underneath, looking up, you never would have guessed that there was an entrance at all. Inside was a snug, round room and in this she made the softest and most comfortable of beds. As it began to look more and more like a home Whitfoot himself became as excited and eager as Mrs. Whitfoot had been from the beginning. "It certainly is going to be a fine home," said Whitfoot.

"Didn't I tell you it would be?" retorted Mrs. Whitfoot.

"Certainly, my dear, certainly," replied Whitfoot very meekly. "If you want to live here, here we will live. But I must confess it isn't clear to me yet how we are going to make a decent home out of this old nest."

"Don't you worry about that," replied Mrs. Whitfoot. "You can get the material and I'll attend to the rest. Let us waste no time about it. I am anxious to get our home finished and to feel a little bit settled. I have already planned just what has got to be done and how we will do it. Now, you go and look for some nice, soft, dry weed stalks and strips of soft, tough material that you can find. Just get busy, and don't stop to talk."

Of course, Whitfoot did as he was told. He ran down to the ground and began to hunt for the things Mrs. Whitfoot wanted. He was very particular about it. He still didn't think much of her idea of making over that old home of Melody's, but if she would do it he meant that she should have the very best of materials to do it with.

So back and forth from the ground to the old nest in the tree, Whitfoot hurried and presently there was quite a pile of weed stalks and soft grass

Now, you go and look for some nice, soft, dry weed stalks and strips of soft, tough material that you can find. Just get busy, and don't stop to talk."

Of course, Whitfoot did as he was told. He ran down to the ground and began to hunt for the things Mrs. Whitfoot wanted. He was very particular about it. He still didn't think much of her idea of making over that old home of Melody's, but if she would do it he meant that she should have the very best of materials to do it with.

So back and forth from the ground to the old nest in the tree, Whitfoot hurried and presently there was quite a pile of weed stalks and soft grass

THE SHADOW OF THE BLIND.

Something besides wind and rain was in the air that night.

It began with Donald Trull, dropping with fatigue and faced with another evening of pleasure in Gay's company. Scarcely had he returned to his chambers when the telephone rang and there was Gay's voice at the other end saying that the weather was so bad and she was so tired that if it wouldn't disappoint him too much, they'd call off their plans.

He tried not to reply too joyfully. His man got together an early makeshift dinner which he ate from a tray before a fire in the shabby old sitting room which he so seldom had time to make his own. After he had consumed the meal, he leaned back in his chair and fell into a deep sleep. It was the first night in months that he had not changed into evening dress and walked forth to some festivity.

At the end of two hours he awoke with the startled feeling that something must be wrong. It was only 9 o'clock; in Gay's words, "The night was very young."

Habit is difficult to overcome, as poor Joyce St. Clair was discovering. Donald discovered that he was wide awake, thorough restless, and did not know what to do with himself. He had hoped for a free moment, and now that he had it, it hung heavily on his hands.

He got up, stretched himself, compared his watch with the clock, where his coat hung. Perhaps the walk would do him good. He would go around to Harbor House and have a cosy chat with old Terence.

About the same time a taxicab might have been observed threading an indecisive way through the wide, old-fashioned streets back of Holborn, finally coming to a stop before a little shop which bore "Millicent" in gold letters across the plate-glass window.

The passenger got out of the cab, paid off the driver, and raced for the secret shelter of a door at the side of the shop. Here he rang the bell violently and was soon rewarded by the sound of pattering footsteps from within.

Millicent, herself, peered out into the rainy darkness.

"Don't you know me? It's Stanhope," said the man.

Millicent shrunk back, but on such a night hospitality was bound to triumph, and she held the door wide open. Jack Stanhope stepped into the tiny hall, which was lit dimly with a single gas jet turned low.

"You ran away last night, and I thought I ought to look around and see how you are and if everything's all right," he went on, in a gentle, proprietary sort of way.

"I was tired and—and I came home," Millicent faltered. "I'm quite all right, thank you."

"May I come up for a few moments?"

"Yes—certainly," she said, after the merest second of hesitation.

She was thinking hard and fast. Both Mr. Trull and Joyce had warned her against Mr. Stanhope. Neither had said anything absolutely direct; it was more what they left unsaid that put Millicent on her guard.

philosophy, the very fact that he wore eyeglasses hallmarked him with a certain amount of virtue. Had it been a single glass, she might have distrusted him without any warning.

She preceded him up the stairs to her little living room. Herbert and the children were already in bed in the rooms above. Millicent had been thinking about following their example, and it seemed to her very late for a gentleman to be paying calls. Indeed, she did not quite understand why Mr. Stanhope should be calling upon her at all.

He gave a quick glance around the room, which was homely and comfortable, but in no wise suggested more than the most limited of means, and then he asked:

"Do you live here all alone, little Millicent?"

The girl shook her head. She was just the least bit frightened.

"Oh, no! I've quite a family. My big brother has just gone up to bed. If you'd like to meet him, I'll call him down."

Stanhope understood the pathetic little threat her words conveyed and he smiled. He must not make her fear him.

It may have been due to coincidence or to something else that, as he answered laughingly that he really did not especially wish to meet her "big brother," he moved between the lamp and the window, so that his profile fell in shadow on the blinds.

At that moment Donald Trull was passing, having chosen this route to Harbor House, not because it was shorter, but because it passed Millicent's shop.

Donald saw the shadowed profile on the blind and recognized it. He stopped dead in the driving rain, and for a moment it seemed that the veins in his throat and temples would burst.

What was he to do? He had pledged his word to Gay not to seek Millicent out. Must he leave the child alone to work out her own life, for good or ill, as it suited her? Had he any right to interfere more than he already had done?

CHAPTER XVII.

Joyce Takes a Hand.

THE shadow on the blind fascinated Donald to the utter exclusion of everything else on earth.

The shadow on the blind went through the motions of lighting a cigarette. Strange to see the shadow of smoke.

Now Jack Stanhope was smiling and gesticulating. What was the man saying? Then—his shadow moved away.

There was nothing now but the blank blind, sulphurously yellow through the driving rain. It was then that Donald's veins seemed likely to burst.

Now binding was his promise to Gay, when she broke hers without a grain of compunction? Yet—it had been a promise. He had said that he would not seek her out. When Joyce St. Clair had given him her word of honor on the very same subject, he had flouted it. He had contemptuously said: "The word of a girl is worth nothing."

The solitary figure of a woman was approaching along the pavement, she carried no umbrella, but was fully protected against the weather by a mackintosh and surwester cap. As she came abreast of him her head was bowed, and she would have passed with a sigh but for the fact that Donald Trull came out of the doorway into which he had slipped and grasped her by the arm.

The cry of alarm died in her throat as she recognized him.

"Mr. Preacher Man! Good gracious, how you frightened me!" she gasped.

"I think God sent you, Joyce," he replied unsteadily. "Stanhope's there with Millicent."

He gesticulated to indicate the floor above.

"Never! What's the matter with you? You're trembling all over."

"I tell you it's true. I saw his shadow on the blind just now. I was passing on my way to see a friend of mine."

"Terence? I've been there myself," Joyce cut in. "But what's this about Millicent?"

"Stanhope is up there—with her." Joyce drew in a sharp little sigh.

"Well, Mr. Preacher Man, what do you want me to do?"

"Good heavens, the girl is your sister!"

"Yes, but you don't think I'm fit to have anything to do with her. You're perfectly fit, yourself. Why don't you ring the bell?"

Very neatly was Donald hoist by his own petard. He had to climb down quickly. His apology and explanation was a jumble.

"Sorry—promised Gay . . . She didn't like the idea of my seeing Millicent. Really, Joyce, I do apologize—if you'll only go up!"

"Then I have your kind permission to call upon my sister."

"Hang it all—don't be a fool!"

"I don't think I'm the biggest fool in the world. Mr. Preacher Man," she retorted. However, she lost no time in ringing the door-bell.

"I'll wait for you at the corner," Donald said hastily as foot-steps sounded immediately from above.

"Don't," she replied. "It's a nasty night and I might decide to spend it with Millicent. As for Mr. Preacher Man—you're not so bad when the human side of life touches you. And thank you for trusting me."

Donald had no time to reply, and stepped back into the shadows as the door opened and Millicent's voice enquired sharply: "Who is it?"

"Only me—Joyce."

"Oh, Joyce!"

"May I come in—or are you busy or something?"

"Please—please do! Mr. Stanhope's here. I want him to go, but I don't know how to get rid of him," Millicent exclaimed in whispers.

"You baby!" Joyce replied laughingly. "That's easy."

The door closed and Donald's left foot lurked outside in the rain, if he chose.

The sisters went upstairs together, their arms around each other.

Stanhope started when he saw whom Millicent had brought in. He had settled himself with his cigarette comfortably on the couch, prepared for a novelty in young women, one who would require discreet and different wooing as compared to others who had succumbed to his charms. The idea did not displease him.

"What was there about this girl that attracted him?"

Before he could answer that question satisfactorily the door of the sitting room opened and Joyce St. Clair sauntered in, ahead of her sister.

"Hello! Don't let me keep you if you're just going. I'm stopping the night and I'm beastly sleepy!" She punctuated her remarks with a yawn and then handed him his hat: "Is this yours?" There's a cab-rank at the corner. Perhaps you'll be lucky enough to find one."

Stanhope laughed and accepted the hat. From his point of view it was impossible not to admit Joyce and to accept her dismissal without argument.

"Yes, I must be off. Thanks, awfully . . . Would you care for these?" They're your favorite brand, I believe."

He divined to his pocket and brought out a little purple embossed box filled, as she had reason to know, with scented and drugged cigarettes. There was a subtle challenge in the offer.

"I think God sent you, Joyce," he replied unsteadily. "Stanhope's there with Millicent."

He gesticulated to indicate the floor above.

"Never! What's the matter with you? You're trembling all over."

"I tell you it's true. I saw his shadow on the blind just now. I was passing on my way to see a friend of mine."

WASHES AND DRIES WITHOUT A WRINGER

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

(Copyright, 1922.)

A GIRL who wants to impress a man tries to prove what a brilliant and beautiful thing she is. A woman is wiser—she implies that most of the brilliancy and beauty is on the other side.

When a man comes home and finds his wife grieving silently, that is the time for exceptionally judicious silence on his part. Because how does he know whether what she has heard about is the little game—or the little girl?

Marriage is a craft which often weathers the storms of life only to founder and sink on the reefs underlying the dead sea of monotony.

Nobody has ever catalogued among labor-saving inventions a pair of large, brown, sympathetic eyes. Yet, if you can turn them on a man's tale of woe you needn't grieve for him, you needn't listen to him, you needn't even THINK about him until the pause comes and you murmur, "I'm so sorry."

If any young woman who has read modern novels, attended modern plays, seen modern movies, succeeds in prevailing on her fiancé to tell her "the story of his past" she is in for a period of acute boredom.

One advantage of being transparent is that—while you can't tell a lie and get away with it—when you tell the incredible truth neither your boss nor your wife suspects you of lying.

Children are the consolation prizes of matrimony; they are most appreciated by the man and the woman who realize they have drawn no first prize in each other.

A woman frequently has been known to forgive a man for breaking her heart, but never for crushing her vanity.

"When faith is lost, when honor dies"—then MARRIAGE is dead.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

HAVE you considered the possibilities offered by a camping trip for the entire family as a fine solution of your vacation problem? There are two ways of taking this sort of a vacation. A car makes either practical. Either may be taken without the car, but not as easily and inexpensively. The first way is to select the desired route, then to travel daytimes and put up at inns or hotels at night. This is apt to be rather expensive, and may not prove restful, for it is hard work to ride steadily day after day.

The other and from several standpoints the better way is to travel to the desired spot, then to camp. In choosing a camp, location is everything. Choose a view with nearby water, where boating, bathing and fishing are possibilities, and where good drinking water is to be had.

To be thoroughly comfortable on a camping trip, dress for it. Nothing that will spoil should be worn, and all clothing should be loose enough to allow freedom in moving about. The skirt that unbuttons and may be left off, with knickers underneath, with blouse or jacket, is ideal for camp use. Appropriate wraps, khaki or stitched hats, and a comfy bathing suit are also essential. Waders and slickers for fishing or beach wear, a light flannel negligee, light-weight flannel or cotton-crepe night garments and stockings and low moccasins instead of slippers will about cover the list of necessities to be carried in the motor trunk or suitcase.

Tents and their fittings may be chosen to suit the place where they are to be used, the size of the party and the amount of available cash to be used. Air mattresses and pillows, blankets and collapsible furniture take up but little room. A couple of light hammocks and a ground cloth also fold flat. A rod trunk and the guns, if carried, may ride on the running board.

Now, we get to the commissary department and decide at once on a small fireless cooker, folding oven, grills and nested pans and pots as a starter. A ditty bag of utensils will do the trick. Several boxes of vegetable washing powder, which works in cold water, will keep them all immaculate with little trouble. For dish towels, a few yards of cotton crepe will be a revelation to those who have never used it before. Paper service entirely, with paper towels, saves dishwashing and makes a good foundation for the daily beach fire.

The crane outfit for stewpots and coffee pots and the teakettle is fine, and a fieldstone fireplace under the crane makes a more perfect firebox than just the open fire.

There are many camping centers described in booklets that are circulated with good road maps. Many owners of large farms or tracts of woodland will allow reliable campers to pitch their tents on remote spots, with but few restrictions, if they are assured that the campers will buy milk and vegetables of them. Eggs, chickens, cream cheese, butter, honey and even fresh bread may be had under the same arrangement.

Campers are always welcome in the national forests, and no rent is asked. Information as to the whereabouts of the forests may be had by communicating with the commission in Washington, D. C. And there are other spots for isolated camps, where permission from some source near by allows one to settle, rent free.

A camping trip will more than repay the outlay in benefits received, and the things purchased may be used again and again, so it is only the original outlay that is appreciable.

Why the makers of the well-known Laun-Dry-Ette recommend Rinso

THE LAUNDRYETTE MANUFACTURING CO.
1190 EAST 122ND STREET
CLEVELAND

LAUN-DRY-ETTE

Lever Bros. Co.,
Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen:

Our washing experts have found Rinso so satisfactory that we are glad to recommend its use in the Laun-Dry-Ette.

A soap that does not dissolve completely often makes greasy deposits on the clothes. We found no little soapy particles floating around in the water in our tests with Rinso as we did with some of the other soaps.

Rinso dissolves to the last grain in boiling water; making a soap solution of even strength. This solution gives a quick, heavy suds that break down the dirt. This quality in a soap is appreciated by every washing machine manufacturer, for it prepares the way for the efficient operation of the machine.

Twelve minutes was the average operating period with Rinso and not a single article had to be hand-rubbed.

Our analysis of Rinso shows that it contains nothing harmful to the Laun-Dry-Ette. This indicated, of course, that it would not injure any of the pieces washed with it. Our practical washing tests proved this to our complete satisfaction.

Very truly yours,
THE LAUNDRYETTE MANUFACTURING COMPANY

J. Harkins
President

LONG before the first Laun-Dry-Ette was put on the market seven years ago the manufacturers of this famous machine started making soap tests.

They knew that their machine could be mechanically perfect—yet not give perfect satisfaction if the wrong kind of soaps were used.

Today after months of searching tests with many soaps they are recommending Rinso in the Laun-Dry-Ette.

Tests made by other great manufacturers

The same exhaustive tests have been made by the leading washing machine makers throughout the country. All are endorsing Rinso without qualification.

Rinso is made of pure cleansing materials so perfectly balanced that it is taking the place of bar soap at every step of the family wash.

When you put your clothes to soak Dissolve Rinso in boiling water—use enough to get big lasting suds. Then, let your clothes soak an hour or more—overnight if you like—(colored clothes only half an hour). Soaking in big, lasting lukewarm Rinso suds softens the dirt.

In any washing machine Use enough Rinso solution to make a heavy suds. Operate your machine from 10 to 15 minutes. Rinso is the ideal soap for machine washing.

If you boil Boiling isn't necessary, but if you like to boil your white cottons, pour enough Rinso solution in the boiler to give you the suds you like.

Rinso is made by the largest soap makers in the world. Sold everywhere. It comes in two sizes—the regular size and the big new package. Get Rinso today—at grocery and department stores. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

However your washing is done
The same qualities that make Rinso an ideal soap in any washing machine make it the best soap you can use whatever way you do the family wash.

NOTE: In hard water it takes from 1/2 to 1 package (regular size) of Rinso to a tub to make good suds. In very hard water you will need from 1 1/2 to 2 packages to a tub to get the big lasting suds that loosen all the dirt.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE HEIGHT OF BOREDOM.

WHEELBARROWS have been the subject of at least two standard anecdotes. There is the stock story of the Irish laborer who angrily yelled to an Italian coworker: "Here, you, quit monkeying with that there wheelbarrow. What would an ignorant guy like you know about machinery?" And there is the other dependable standby, which nearly everyone has heard, of the visitor who was being escorted over the grounds of the state lunatic asylum and came to where a squad of the inmates were trundling material for a building job. The visitor noted that one of the group was holding his barrow upside down and said to him: "My friend, why don't you turn your wheelbarrow over and roll it in the regular way?" "S-h-h! Not so loud," warned the lunatic. "All these other chaps here are crazy, but I'm the only sane one in the lot. Why, if I turned this wheelbarrow over those fellows yonder would fill it full of bricks."

I crave to add a third to the list of wheelbarrow jokes. The man who told it to me vouched for its authenticity. He said that in a little town in Georgia there was a cotton mill hand who, on account of the closing down of the mill, was given a summertime job of cleaning and repairing the village streets. He had no associates, and undoubtedly the work grew monotonous, yet he stuck to the task because he needed the money which the municipality paid him to tide him over the dull season.

One blazing hot morning a passer-by noticed that he was dragging his barrow behind him as he passed through the principal street. To the onlooker this seemed an especially laborious way of moving the unsightly vehicle.

"Say, Bill," he called out, "what's the big idea? Why not push your wheelbarrow instead of pulling it?"

"Well, Mr. Dunsen," answered the hapless operative, "I do get my head looking at the damn thing all day!"
